EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THREE hundred editors participated in the editorial excursion.

MISS CLEVELAND's picture will not be permitted to grace her new book. Guess we won't buy one.

SECRETARY BAYARD will probably soon retire from the cabinet, owing to disagreements with the President.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL's wife—an American girl, by the way—is the Mrs. John A. Logan of English politics.

CHAIRMAN RYNDER has called a State Greenback convention for the 12th of August. It will meet in Erie, as it is believed that city will be large enough to accommodate the Convention.

THE musicians are waging a crusade against the piano. Just here we desire to say that the piano is our favorite musical instrument, if a true artist is manipulating the keyboard.

THE story that President Diaz, of Mexico, wants a war between his country and the United States, in order that Mexico may be conquered, annexed and improved by our Government, is rather too thin.

THE morals of Media, Pa., are becoming somewhat more healthful in the recent action of the Y. M. C. A. in compelling officers of the law to close barber shops, ice cream saloons and cigar stores on Sunday.

PETER R. WARNER, of New York, has been in the service of the North River Fire Insurance Company for 60 years and on Wednesday when he resigned from its presidency he related that in that period he has never had a holiday.

MAYOR HARRISON, of Chicago, accuses the Daily News of that city with inventing lies to injure him. If this is true the Daily News ought be ashamed of itself. In the case of a man like Harrison the simple truth is bad enough to tell.

BECHUANALAND, a tract of territory 800 miles in extent in the Congo region, is the latest annexation made by England. Her wily statesmen seized this prize while the world thought they were distracted over the troubles in Soudan and Afghanistan.

JOHN MCCOLLOUGH, the tragedian, is ending his life in a very sad way. The keen mental perception which enabled him to personate others with such consummate art has left its throne, and he cannot now even act the role of "John McCollough." It is one of the phases of human life which affect us with sincere regret.

ABOUT the most cutting thing that has been said of Cleveland was said by Roscoe Conkling the other day when he remarked, "I never saw Mr. Cleveland in my life." It shows the utter insignificance of ex-Sheriff Cleveland when a man who is supposed to have seen almost every other man of prominence can say that of him.

How WILL the choice of State Treasurer affect the nomination for Governor a year hence? If a western man is chosen for State Treasurer, will not the east demand the choice of an eastern man for Governor, and vice versa? If population be considered Centre county may be classed as west of the centre, and to ensure the nomination of Gen. Beaver for Governor it may be well for Centre county to advocate the claims of an eastern man for State Treasurer. This will shut out both Quay and Magee's man and necessitate the course already advised by the DAILY NEWS—the choice of a new man.

Reception of the Goddess of Liberty.—Condition of Gen. Grant.—Tenement Egg-shells.—The French Committee.—Amusements.—Hard Times, &c.

New York, June 20, 1885.

That the soul of Liberty has gone marching on from the time the noble Lafayette first gave aid to the cause of American Independence has been signally exemplified during the present week in New York City. More than a hundred years ago the spirit of Liberty which even then burned in the hearts of the French people, while under a monarchy stronger than the kingly power of England, offered sympathy and support to the American struggle for independent democratic government. And now the people of the young Republic of France have sent to us the token of their good will and republican fellowship in the gift of a statue of the Goddess of Liberty—a colossal work of art, a magnificent bronze figure symbolical of Liberty Enlightening the World, which reached our Bay on Thursday, and was yesterday escorted to its destined home on Bedloe's Island by the most magnificent marine pageant ever before witnessed. A hundred vessels were in the procession up the Harbor; and the flags and banners, the music of bands, the booming of cannon, and the cheering shouts of welcome by hundreds of thousands of our citizens, the parade up Broadway, the speeches at the City Hall giving welcome to the distinguished foreigners who accompanied the Goddess to our shores, made a gala day of general enthusiastic joy and which will be notable as one of the red letter days of the city.

The French and American colors were intermingled in the decorations of City Hall, of Printing House Square, and of many prominent buildings.

The idea of such a presentation to the United States originated, we believe, with the great artist, A. Bartholdi, who conceived and planned the figure and under whose direction the entire work was executed. That genius is not alone sufficient for the most perfect production of art work is illustrated in this case. To enable him the better to interpret and represent the spirit of the American people and government, in one grand masterful symbol, A. Bartholdi spent some months in this country on a visit and tour of observation. The result is this wonderful statue of Liberty. Competent judges who have seen it in its details pronounce it superbly grand and symbolically eloquent.

Some idea can be formed of the magnitude of this statue in its entirety when we say that it is composed of 214 sections many of which are of several tons weight, the aggregate being 700 tons by measurement, and 222 tons dead weight. The Keystone Bridge Co., of Pittsburg, is to furnish 150 tons of steel to be used for the interior framework of the statue, and to fasten it securely to the pedestal.

The pedestal, which will be the work of our own people will necessarily be of immense proportions, and of relative artistic beauty. The daily "World," of this city, undertook the work of securing, by voluntary donations direct from the people, sufficient funds to construct the pedestal, and its appeal to the patriotism of our citizens has been nobly responded to, as the sum of $80,000 has already been contributed for this purpose.

Occupying so conspicuous a position, and standing on a base so elevated and imposing, this colossal figure symbolical of "Liberty Enlightening the World" will be one of the most attractive features in the beautiful Bay of New York. To the oppressed peoples that flock to our shores from foreign lands this Goddess of Liberty will forever stand as the beacon of hope and promise.

GENERAL GRANT.

Our great American hero, and confessedly the greatest and most notable military chieftain in the world, is believed to be slowly failing. The cancer is daily making inroads upon his throat and is surely doing its deadly work. On the first of the week General Grant was removed to Mount

McGregor, accompanied by his family, and by his attending physician, Dr. Dougless. Though he seems to revive somewhat under the influence of the pure, bracing mountain air, yet the physicians give no hopes of any permanent benefit.

General Grant's book—his annals of the war, will unquestionably be one of the most popular works ever issued from the American press. It will be a clear and candid statement of events that will ever stand foremost in our history, and which made the beginning of a new epoch in our country's life and the result of which cannot yet be conceived by poet, seer, or prophet. This last work of General Grant, coming at a time when it may be considered peculiarly as a legacy to the American people, will still more endear him to the nation, and serve to keep his memory green in the hearts of our children's children through many generations.

MUD HOUSES.

When hundreds of human beings are compelled to live in small boxes of rooms, all in one vast structure, called here tenement houses, it would naturally be supposed they would see that such houses were substantially built before placing their families in the hives, seven, nine and, in some instances, twelve and thirteen stories above the stone surface of the streets. But little heed has heretofore been given to the question of safety, and builders consequently have become careless and reckless, and in their greed to make money have put up blocks of buildings that are mere egg shells as to strength and security. One of these immense structures collapsed, fell into a perfect wreck, killing two persons outright and seriously injuring thirty or forty others. Now, the rich builder is in Ludlow street jail, convicted of manslaughter, and will be sent to Sing Sing. This has served as a lesson to our authorities, and other like buildings are being torn down, condemned as unsafe. Gotham is not altogether bad, after all—wickedness is punished here as well as elsewhere, and when people begin to talk about the immunity from punishment of the criminal classes in large cities they must remember that a city is a "little bigger place" than Jarvis' Corners or Hobb's Station.

THE FRENCH COMMITTEE.

The distinguished gentlemen of the committee sent by France to present the Statue of Liberty are given the freedom of the city, and being entertained most royally by our citizens, and by various clubs and institutions. They have already attended most of our theatres, and by special invitation of Manager Aronson they will attend, in body, the grand Casino. On Monday evening Mr. Aronson is to put upon the stage a play which has never before been rendered in English. It is the Comique Opera, Nanon, which has had a wonderful success in the principal cities of Austria and Germany; and to its perfect production at the Casino months of preparation have been given, and large amount expended by Mr. Aronson for magnificent costumes and scenery.

HARD TIMES.

We must confess our mistake in prognosticating the times, soon after Cleveland's election. We expected "good times" would come right along, soon as the political excitement had subsided. But that was a sort of Wiggins weather calculation that "wouldn't wash." New York has seldom "enjoyed" so long and uninterrupted a period of down-right hard times. "Nothing is doing" is the common phrase among business men. The retail merchants seem to be the greatest sufferers. All the dry goods stores have their goods marked down from one-third to one-half, and in some lines, to one-fourth the usual prices. The Centre county ladies should make a note of this: Summer silks, 68 cents; albatross, 49 cents; chambray robes, $3.00; printed satteens, 7 cents; French, 12 and 15 cts; lawns, 24 cents; and other dress goods and fancy articles proportionately low. Still, it may not be worth while for the ladies to come to New York to make purchases, as the Bellefonte merchants will probably allow the same rate of discounts to retain their patronage.

This patient waiting for good times may be no great loss to the country, after all. The roller skating rink craze is one of the successful results of nothing else to do.

In two or three months the farmers of Centre county any way, if nobody else can, will be able to snap their fingers at hard-times, when their rich harvests are gathered and all the barns filled with plenty to the very eaves.

HIRSH TORREY.

The New 'Un.

The Watchman, on the 26th, was displeased because Mr. Lowell, late minister to England, has seen fit to speak pleasantly of his life in that country and neglected to express joy at his return to the United States. Then it says: "It is to be hoped that Mr. Phelps, the new minister, may not show himself such a noodle."

Be this as it may, Minister Phelps, on the occasion of the dinner given by the Lord Mayor to her Majesty's judges, uttered the following very surprising sentiment:

And if I may be permitted to refer to recent events, I can assure you that when it was perceived in America that the clouds of war which threatened to settle down upon your country began to be dissipated—a hope in the realization of which I pray God we may not be disappointed—and when it began to be seen that the sunshine of continued peace was likely to fall unobstructed upon the multiplied industries of England, there were no people in all the range of humanity by whom the conclusion was received with more sincere and complete satisfaction and gratitude than by the people of the United States.

Now we believe that Minister Phelps said what he knew to be untrue to please the English. If we are a correct judge of sentiment we do not believe that a peaceful decision of these difficulties was received with "sincere and complete satisfaction." Indeed, we believe that a declaration of war would have been much more satisfactory to the people of the United States. We remember that when ex-Governor Curtin, who occupies the responsible position of chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, made a Memorial-day address in the Court House, he said that the sooner England and Russia begin war the better, and the sentiment was applauded. War between these two great Nations would mean a market for all that the United States can produce and consequent prosperity.

Therefore, we believe that Minister Phelps misrepresented his country in a way that Lowell would not have condescended to do, and proved himself not only a noodle, but a toady. So much for "the new 'un."

The Day we Celebrate.

Only a day or two now until the greatest annual holiday will occur that the people of the United States celebrate during the year. It is a day which should always be remembered with special regard. We do not like the idea of allowing celebrations of it to become one bit less enthusiastic as the years pass by. The remembrance of it and the historical associations which cluster about it seem to be among the great motive powers that perpetuate patriotism and love of country. Let old and very sedate folks agree to endure some inconvenience on that day that the young people may celebrate in even a noisy manner if they desire to do so. But insist upon it that the thrilling incidents which culminated in and also those that immediately followed the declaration of independence be stored in their memories.

If this is done we shall always remain a free and independent people.

THE Mormon movement towards Mexico has been accelerated by the operation of the Edmunds law, which fills the Utah polygamists with disgust. Citizens of the United States will part with the saints and their families without sorrow. But how will the Mexicans receive them?

A Plain Truth.

The National election last fall was won by the Democrats, not by an honest preponderance of a majority of the states, but in certain of the Southern states their electoral votes were cast for the Democratic candidate because their voters were deprived of the right to a free and an honest count. Nobody pretends that this allegation, regarding at least six of the Southern states, is anything but true. It is not only acknowledged by the Democrats of those states, but is defended by them on the plea that the negroes are not fit for self government, that the whites will never submit to be ruled by the negro majority, and that this is a white man's government, anyhow. That this state of affairs is in plain defiance of the constitutional guarantees concerning the rights of a very numerous class of citizens in the South is plain to every one. It is equally plain that the Ohio platform speaks nothing but the sober truth when it declares that it is a matter of national interest; and, in the language of Chairman Taylor of the Ohio Republican convention, it is threatening to "hurl the dis-severed fragments of the nation into the vortex of anarchy and dissolution." The cry of "bloody shirt" is not likely to dissuade any true lover of his country from casting his ballot with the party which pledges itself to see that every voter, white or black, shall have his right as a citizen sacredly respected.

AMATEUR oarsmen are still discussing the causes of Yale's complete defeat last Friday. The first cause was that they did not row fast enough to win, which is attributed to their bad stroke. Forty strokes a minute will never win in a four mile race. The New York Tribune thinks that the "Bob Cook stroke," which for years "has been considered the proper caper" at Yale will have to be modified. Mr. Cook himself denies that the Yale eight rowed after his pattern, but that, on the contrary, they pulled a mongrel stroke. The best judges admit that Harvard's style in handling the oars was excellent, although some believe that an improvement can be made in the action of the oarsmen inside the boat. It has been evident for four years past that the style adopted by Yale was bad, and she would probably have been convinced of the necessity of making a change before this season had she not taken her accidental victory last year as a vindication of her stroke. The subject is one in which the greatest interest is felt among all persons familiar with aquatic sports.

THE Democrats naturally are opposed to the revival of the rebel issue in politics, and they declaim most vigorously against the Ohio platform as treating of issues that they would like to have both dead and forgotten. There are few people who would not like to see such issues dead, though all cannot obliterate them from memory. The Republican party did not originate, but met, the rebel issue when it was inaugurated by Democrats a quarter of a century ago. They do not now seek its revival; but when it is thrust upon their attention by the very next Democratic Administration in the superior recognition given to those who excited and actively participated in the rebellion they cannot plead blindness of vision. It is the Democratic Administration that is forcing the rebel issue again into the political arena.

FISH, the swindling ex-bank president, has been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. He will not, however, enjoy the companionship of Buddensiek, who is to pass a decade at Sing Sing, while Fish pines at Auburn.

SOME of the sweet girl graduates are jumping off the platform into the arms of husbands.

GENERAL NOTES.

A good mechanic in Holland can earn $4 a week.

The battle of Solfereno was fought 25 years ago Wednesday, June 24.

The next orange crop of Florida is expected to be worth $2,000,000.

The Murphy temperance meetings at Pittsburg have closed for the present.

The net indebtedness of Westmoreland county is put down at $152,455.25.

A heavy rain storm on Saturday evening did considerable damage in portions of Fayette county.

Physical instruction is to be introduced into the New York schools after the German method.

The young volcano discovered about a year ago, a few miles from Santa Maria, Cal., is still burning.

Samuel Phiel, of Williamson, Cumberland county, is in a precarious condition from the sting of a locust.

John Hackett, of Pittsburg, believes that there are rich deposits of silver beneath Minersville, near that city.

Five weddings in one day at Greensburg recently was the greatest sensation that place has had for some time.

Mrs. Hannah Loose, a blind woman, received injuries in Reading Saturday by a fall which it is thought will prove fatal.

Miners and laborers in the anthracite region are likely to have steady work for five months when mining is resumed in July.

Lightning struck a tank containing 25,000 barrels of oil at Carrollton, McKean county, on Sunday morning. The contents were consumed.

A young child of Henry Mull, who lives near Washington, was killed on Saturday morning by a heavy barn door falling off its hinges upon its head.

An Indian burying ground was recently discovered on a farm near Penopolis, Fayette county, from which ninety skeletons have been exhumed.

A French musician has caused quite a sensation in Paris by declaring that piano playing degrades the whole science of music by bringing it down to a vulgar level.

The ingenuity of American advertising is simply exhaustless. A restaurant keeper entices customers by the alluring sign, "Flies not allowed in this restaurant."

Don't drink cider through a lead pipe. Half a dozen men in a Massachusetts town took their cider from a barrel in this manner and are now suffering from lead poisoning.

Five generations of a family, from a patriarch 100 years old down to the great-grand-granddaughter, aged 3 years, were recently represented in a photograph taken by an Indianapolis photographer.

At one time during the Revolutionary War the currency of the country had so far depreciated that a barrel of flour was worth $1,576, and John Adams paid $15,000 for a suit of clothes and a hat.

"Down East" they are suffering from a new complaint which they call "strawberry throat." No description of it is given, but it probably attacks those who can't get all the strawberries they crave.

The one hundred and seventh anniversary of the massacre of Wyoming will take place on Friday next. The Commemorative association will hold its annual reunion at the old monument ground at Fort Fork.

The pyramid of Cholula, not far from the City of Mexico, is the most massive monument ever raised in America. Its base covers 45 acres, it is 150 feet high, in terrace composed of stone and brick and natural soil heaped up in layers.

There has just been unearthed in Lancaster county perhaps the earliest iron casting made in the county, being a stoveplate case, at Elizabeth Furnace, by Baron Henry William Stiegle, in 1758. The baron's name appears on the plate.

John C. Stevens was the founder of American yachting. He founded the New York Club, which originally numbered only nine yachts. Now there are 1,800 vessels of the kind belonging to American owners. Stevens built the famous yacht America. The oldest American yacht is the Minnesota, which was built in 1835.

The average schoolboy very properly believes that his summer vacation is given him in order that he may keep thoroughly posted in the scores and rank of the base ball clubs. The task is not slight, but he takes to it more willingly than to the shortest arithmetic lesson. Young America has no loftier ambition than to be an authority on sporting records.

The commencement season caused a famine in flowers. Florists report that the market for several days during the past week was quite bare of some specialties, and that buds and blossoms of all kinds were unusually scarce. Strange to say prices did not advance correspondingly, which leads to the hope that the diminished supply is only temporary.

Poetry.

HIGH-PRICED HUMANITY.

She was ready for bed, and lay on my arm,
In her little flannel cap so fine,
With her golden hair falling out at the edge,
Like a circle of moon sunshine.
And I hummed the old tune of "Banbury Cross."

"And 'Three men, who put out to sea,'
When she sleepily said, as she closed her blue eyes.
"Papa, for would you take for me?"

And I answered, "A dollar, dear little heart,"
And she slept, baby weary with play,
But I held her warm in my love strong arms,
And rocked her and rocked away.
Oh, the dollar meant all the world to me,
The land and the sea and sky,
The lowest depth of the lowest place,
The highest of all that's high.

The cities with streets and palaces,
Their pictures and stores of art,
I would not take for one low soft throb
Of my little one's loving heart.
Nor all the gold that was ever found
In the busy wealth-finding past,
Would I take for one smile of my darling's face,
Did I know it must be the last.

So I rocked my baby and rocked away,
And I felt such a sweet content,
For the words of the song expressed to me
More than I could ever dream.

Than they ever before had meant,
And the night crept on and I slept and dreamed
Of things far too glad to be,
And I wakened with lips saying close to my ear,
"Papa, for would you take for me?"

THE SECRET OF THE BROOK.

The silver brook is dancing light
All in the golden sunshine bright;
Across the stones with belidgit,
Its curling eddies whirl and fight
In many a lovely nook.

It murmurs with melodious flow
Among the lilies white as snow
Toward the mighty sea below;
Thus ripples on the brook.

Come to me, Love! The day is fair
And blossom-scented is the air,
The flowers their choicest colors wear
'Tis beauty here and beauty there,
Far as the eye can see.

Together let us joyous sing
While sunny summer-time doth bring
Fresh life and joy to everything,
For Time, alas! is on the wing;
Come, come, my Love, to me!

There's tender music in the sound
Of plashing waters all around
As o'er the pebbles light doth bound—
So light it scarce doth touch the ground—
The ever-rippling brook.

Oh, Love, each mellow, dulcet tone
Speak to our souls, as here we own
For each other love alive;
The secret of our hearts is shown
And written in Life's Book.

DEATH SWINGS HIS SICKLE.

Laugh and play, little children:
I hear Death cutting the grass;
He will soon pass.

"Oh, Death, with your swinging sickle,
Say, how does your harvest yield,
Meadow and field?"

And Death said, swinging his sickle,
"My Master will count up the sheaves,
The grass and leaves."

"Oh, Death, with your swinging sickle,
What is it you leave behind?
The sheaves that you bind?"

And Death said, swinging his sickle,
"Enough of sorrow and death
To sadden the earth."

"But the earth is not saddened, oh, Death!
The children laugh loud in their play,
And the sun shines to-day."

And Death said, swinging his sickle,
"The grief that would smother your land
I leave in God's hand."

Our Story Teller.

Unreasonably Jealous.

You see I'm naturally of a jealous disposition. Not that you'll blame any one for being jealous for good cause, I'm sure. No, indeed. Why a woman would be a stick, not to be jealous with good cause, wouldn't she? I'm sure Mr. Kimberly is the very best of men, but you cannot trust the best; so at least dear mother-in-law says. Contrary to the general rule, I am devoted to dear mother-in-law. She was visiting me at the time, and we'd been having the nicest talk about all the people she knew, and the dreadful things poor women have to put up with, and she had gone out to spend the day with old friends, saying to me just before I tied her bonnet strings for her:

"Well, Melinda, there's one comfort; dear Cicero is the very best of men. You'll never have any trouble with him in that way," and I had gone down stairs in my slippers—those little felt ones that make no noise, and that I wear in the nursery—when I saw Bridget go into the parlor in a stealthy sort of way, with a little note in her hand.

She came out once, but I had heard her speak to Cicero, and somehow my heart was in my mouth. I don't know why; it was a sort of presentiment, I suppose, of what I was to go through; but my heart was literally in my mouth, and I did not make as much noise as I might when I went into the parlor.

Yes, I confess I trod lightly, and have a soft step naturally; and so I came on Cicero before he saw me and detected him in the act of putting the note in his dressing-gown pocket. I looked at him but asked no questions. I knew that if my suspicions were without foundation he would tell me whom the note was from, and I waited; but he did not say anything—no, not a word. It may have been my fancy that he looked guilty, but I thought he did. However I kept calm. I had made up my mind what to do. Probably in any case he would forget to take the note out of his dressing-gown pocket when he put on his coat to go to business; but I meant that he should not have a chance to do it if he did think of it.

I intended to help him off with his dressing-gown myself.

The clock struck 9, Cicero always leaves home at 9, and I saw him leave his chair, go to the mantel-piece, toss the remnant of his cigar into the grate, look at the time-piece, yawn, and say, as he stretched his arms:

"Well I guess I had better be off."

I watched all that, as I may say, as Cicero might have watched Brutus.

Then I saw him begin to take off his dressing-gown, and I said:

"Let me assist you." And I took it off and I hung it up; and more, I stood between it and Cicero until he left the house. He kissed me when he took his hat, and I did not yet know enough to refuse him that privilege; but I thought—yes, I thought even then—what might be.

I watched from the window until I saw him catch a stage, and then I locked the parlor door and flew to the dressing-gown, just inside the pantry. I plunged my hand into the pocket, and I drew forth a little pink note—not in an envelope, but folded in a little twist; not at all a neat note, and scribbled in lead pencil and I sat down before the fire and read it through. It was this:

"Mind you don't forget, or I shall think Melinda has quite weaned you from me. You always used to be very attentive, my dear. It is 78,560 Live Oak avenue, Jersey City."

M. A.

"P. S.—Don't be later than 9."

That was all. Was it not enough? No one can say I was needlessly jealous. This woman—it was evidently a woman—called him "my dear," said that if he forgot something not mentioned—and that proved a private understanding between them, at once—she should think "Melinda," I, his lawful, wedded wife, had "weaned" him from her.

Never was evidence greater than this. Yet I knew if I accused him of infidelity to me point blank he would declare, the note was from some masculine friend, and I could never prove anything. Therefore I determined to watch him. I also would be at 78,560 Live Oak avenue not later than 9.

You can imagine what a day mine was. I could not attend to anything, I could only walk the floor and cry, and I looked so dreadfully when dinner time came that I was afraid Cicero would suspect something. So I went to bed, and told Bridget to tell Mr. Kimberly that I had one of my sick headaches and begged he did not disturb me, for I felt anxious to get to sleep.

Then I bolted the door. But after awhile when I heard dinner was over and heard him go into the back parlor, I crept down stairs and peeped in at the crack of the door, and if my suspicions had needed confirmation they had it then. I saw him go to the pantry, take down his dressing gown that I, his poor, insulted wife, had made him with my own hands for his own birthday, and we'd lived together ten long years, and he was forty years old—no young fellow to be led away easily, one would think.

Yes he took down that beautiful gown with the quilted trimming that I sat up all one night to finish; and drew from his pocket that pink note, read it, put it in his vest pocket, put on his overcoat, hat and gloves. He was going to her. Yes, going to the M. A. who wrote that note; but I, his insulted wife, was going too. Little did he know that; little did he suspect it.

Before he was at the corner I had my waterproof cloak and my big gray cloud on. Of course my object was to muffle up as much as possible, and go after him. I had my brown veil, too, and I sat in the corner of the same car he occupied—some poor washerwoman, for all he knew—and he went to meet this wicked M. A.

Of course at the end of the ride he took a ferryboat, and I stood outside in the bitter blast all through the trip, and I was so chilled I could hardly follow him, as he strode up the wide street anxious, I could see, to get to M. A.; as anxious as ever he was to get to me when I was an innocent girl, who never thought all his love making would come to this. However, he turned down Live Oak avenue at last, and came to 78,560, and went up the steps and rung the bell; but she did not come to the door. A little black boy opened it, answered the question he asked, and ushered him in—my husband.

I thought I should faint upon the spot. But, indeed, I've known ever since then that I have more strength than I gave myself credit for. I kept my senses, and I just stood there trying to think what I should do. Somehow I must see M. A., and know what she was like. Should I ring the bell, and when the door was opened rush into the parlor? Should I bribe the little black boy to give me a peep so nehow—or, since it really did not matter about living any longer, should I go back to the ferry and end it all by jumping off the wharf?

I had almost made up my mind to do this when the door of the house opened and out came my husband with a lady on his arm. She was very much wrapped up and her veil was down, and I could not see her face; but I noticed he was very careful of her. And I followed behind them and listened. I heard his voice but not hers.

"Melinda had one of her headaches when I came away," he said; and I knew he was boasting how he had deceived me and escaped without my knowledge. And a little while after that I heard him say:

"I had quite forgotten the number. If I hadn't kept your note I shouldn't have found you." And after that there was some talk about a journey she had lately taken. I began to see now that this M. A. lived out of town, and to guess where he went when he talked of business, and put a couple of changes in his valise.

They crossed the ferry. She lived in New York, then? They took the cars. So did I. They stopped at our street. Of course I did too. But where did she live then? Was it that bold-faced thing opposite, who was always flirting with someone? Was it that widow next door? I always felt suspicious of her. At last they came to our house—yes, to our house—and went up the steps. What did it mean? And then as Cicero put his key into the night-latch, I heard the lady's voice for the first time.

"I do hope Melinda is better," said she. "If she isn't, I shall make her some boneless tea at once."

It was my mother-in-law's voice, and now I knew all. She had been afraid Cicero would forget to come after her and had sent a little note up stairs by the girl. She always goes out the basement way, because being stout, she hates the high front steps; and the M. A. was only Mr. Cicero always called her ma. She needn't, of course, spoken of Melinda weaning him from her. But mothers-in-law will be mothers-in-law, in some degree, the best of them, you know.

"A great weight rolled off my heart like a mighty stone. I ran up the steps."

"Why, Melinda," cried my mother-in-law.

"Been out at this hour?" said Cicero.

"Yes; I thought a walk would cure my head, and it has acted like magic," said I.

You know it would have been foolish to tell the truth, and besides I was just a little bit ashamed of myself.

So we all went into the parlor together in peace and amity, and I felt very thankful that my jealousy was without foundation, though after all, men—

But no matter.

Washington Official Etiquette.

A certain etiquette is to be observed in addressing the President, either in person or by letter, which many strangers to Washington seem to not know of. The proper title is "Mr. President," and all such titles or words as "your honor," "your excellency," or "President Cleveland," are considered as in extremely bad taste. Massachusetts calls its governor "your excellency," and the lieutenant governor "his honor," but the President of the United States is simply "the President."

In letters to him the address, "The President, Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.," is all that is necessary, and more is improper. As to the members of Cabinet, in private conversation you address them as "Mr. Secretary of the Treasury," "Mr. Attorney General," etc. But in writing the proper form is, for instance, "Hon. Thomas Bayard, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C."

In writing to a senator you say in a formal epistle, "Mr. Senator," and you address the outside of your letter, for instance, "Hon. John A. Logan, Senate Chamber, Washington, D. C."

Members of Congress are addressed by their last names with Mr. But if one of them has ever had a decent military title I mean anything above the rank of major. In case of doubt always aim higher than you think instead of lower.

You may call a Congressman who has been a colonel a general and flatter him, but if you call him captain he will scowl at you and never forgive you. No class of people are more easily flattered than those whom the world regards as great men.

Do You Say "Thanks" or "Thank You?"

What a mechanical affair—nay, what a mean little orphan in the great family of words—is the too often heard monosyllable, "Thanks." Especially does it seem so when thought of in comparison with the pretty, pleasing and proper expression, "Thank you."

"Thank" cannot well be spoken without suggesting the idea to the one addressed that the speaker is conscious of an occasion to be thankful for, with a desire to be considered "proper," and that these are being strangled by the belief that there is not time enough on hand in which to say so appropriately, or else not culture enough in stock to recognize the fitness of things by being simply polite.

"Thanks" is cold, careless and uncivil, and fails in the purpose intended to be accomplished by its use. It is heartless, meaningless and harsh to a sensitive listener, and rolls itself off the tongue as if it was something to be got rid of at the earliest possible moment.

"Thank you" is warm, considerate and polite. It would be the saddest kind of a stoic, indeed, who could give the words full expression without both the speaker and listener getting a little ray of sunshine that would otherwise have escaped notice. Properly expressed, they soothe and satisfy both the giver and the receiver, and both find a little well of gladness springing up in their hearts that had before been an undiscovered treasure.—Good Housekeeping.

An anglers' paper speaks of the "shrinkage of trout streams." A trout stream may shrink, but the trout never does. It generally expands and increases in weight after being removed from the stream by an angler.

A man may be bold in business, brave in battle and courageous in time of danger, but the small brother of the girl whom he is courting will often knock him out in one round.

A Woman's Flying Machine.

Mrs. Carl Myers, of Mohawk, better known as "Carlotta," the lady aeronautist, has lately obtained letters patent on several devices pertaining to aerial navigation. She says that she believes the day is not far distant when people will navigate the air as readily as they now plough the seas. A recently patented fixture is attached to a hydrogen-gas balloon, and consists of a collapsible car, comprising the rudder platform which has carried her on over 150 voyages in space. This platform surrounded by an expansion hoop connected to the balloon by cords, is described as somewhat like a light boat on water, and tips or changes its plane or level with every different position of the aeronaut standing upon it, either through alteration of the centre of gravity of the entire air ship or through the shortening or lengthening of the netting meshes. Alterations in the level of this platform convert it into a rudder like that in the stern of a boat while the balloon ascends, and when descending the lower or advancing edge of the platform guides the balloon in any direction, just as would a paddle or oar extended from the paddle or bow of a boat—thus the balloon descends toward any side of the platform which the aeronaut may depress by stepping upon it. This simple and exceedingly effective apparatus is covered by one claim of the patent.

Resting upon the extension hoop of the car is the crank shaft of a screw propeller, composed of a cloth sail, which twists into screw form as soon as the shaft is turned, and creates powerful currents of air flowing rearward, and by alterations of angle or level serves to elevate, depress or deviate the course of any attached aerial body or give it steerage way for guidance by a rudder.

This apparatus spreads five feet across, moves as easily as a lady's fan and folds up as compactly as a parasol.

At the rear is a kite-shaped rudder, composed of a large square of cloth stretched upon four arms, joined by a common pivot in the centre. This is attached to the car by one arm through a universal joint, permitting the rudder to occupy any desirable position in horizontal, vertical or inclined plane, so that a single rudder thus performs the work which has hitherto demanded both a horizontal and a vertical rudder, either separately or in combination. This apparatus either acts to guide the balloon during its natural ascent or descent, or the aeronaut at will can give any direction to the airship by revolving the propeller sail towards any point, or by projecting the air flung from it against the surface of the rudder-kite. The apparatus can perform a greater variety of evolutions than a bird's wings, spreads more surface than any bird or other aerial mechanism, weight for weight, and has the ability to create at any time a wind for its own sails, and can yet fold its wings almost as suddenly as a bird.

The apparatus has thus far proved of great practical service, and demonstrates that a common balloon may be moved up, down or around in the air by a man's unaided efforts—or rather by a woman's efforts—and on landing be relieved of danger of dragging.

Beatrice's Wedding Cake.

The following is a description of the wedding cake made to the order of Kentish ladies for her Royal Highness, Princess Beatrice: It represents three cakes, one above the other, and the plateau upon which it rests, and surrounding the lower cake is a wreath of lilies, white interspersed with ivy, emblematic of purity, sweetness and friendship.

Surrounding the lowest cake are large skeleton shields bearing on enclosed shields the coat of arms of the Princess Beatrice and Prince Henry, of Battenberg, interspersed with passion flowers. Surrounding the second cake are jessamine, and round the second and third cakes are passion flowers, ivy and roses.

On the top cake are cupids and a large vase containing an immense bouquet composed of a variety of emblematic flowers. The cake weighs about 451 pounds, and the floral decorations are all modeled entirely of sugar. It will be placed on a massive gold stand, which is being specially made and designed for the occasion.

Personality Ignorant.

"Now then, madam," said the lawyer to the lady witness, "will you please tell us your age?"

"Impossible."

"Why, madam, impossible to tell your age?"

"Yes, sir; I can only depend on witnesses in regard to the matter; and as I have never asked them to give sworn testimony I cannot swear myself what my age is."

"But, madam—"

"It is true, sir. I am willing to admit that I was present at my birth, but I assure you I have not the least recollection of the event, and you would not have me speak of anything under oath of which I am personally ignorant." He did not press the matter further.

"Was Rome founded by Romeo?" inquired a pupil of the teacher.

"No, my son," replied the wise man; "it was Juliet who was found dead by Romeo." The pupil said nothing, but immediately wrote to the Postmaster of Juliet, Ill., for full particulars.

Kissing Girls.

Mrs. Furey, of the Altoona Sunday Morning, in her very able article on "kissing," says:

"Of all the small afflictions by which sensible women are victimized in society, the habit of indiscriminate kissing that prevails among a large portion of woman-kind is the most oppressive. It cannot be called a fashion in the sense in which their bonnets or the cut of their dresses are fashions, for it does not originate in the great centres of civilization where legitimate fashions take their rise. It has not even the sanction of good breeding for its excuse. Women have degraded kissing—the tenderest expression of affection—into a mere conventionalism that counts no more than the shake of the hand among men, and hardly for so much, since men more honest are slow to extend their hand to one who they do not respect, while a majority of women will kiss with equal fervor friends, foes or rivals. In fact, not content with one kiss, they often double the infliction by way of expressing the rapture they do not feel after the separation of a trifling period of time. The merest acquaintance, to whose existence you may be as indifferent as the Ameer of Afghanistan will fly at you on the smallest pretext with a volley of kisses as fervent as you would expect from a lover after a prolonged absence. Women try to excuse the folly and insincerity of the custom by declaring that everybody knows it is a mere form and means nothing. Then if it means nothing why practice a custom that all ladies of good breeding acknowledge to be a bore, and all intelligent persons know to be an unhealthy, and in case of various diseases, a dangerous one?"

Crack Steppers.

"See that man over there?" exclaimed a gentleman to a reporter yesterday, pointing to an old man who was walking down Chestnut Street in front of Independence Hall; the old fellow had his head bent and seemed in deep thought. "That's a crack stepper."

"A crack stepper?"

"H'm; you watch him and see how he walks. He won't step on a single crack between the flag-stones, no matter how it inconveniences him. There are a quantity of men who are in the habit of stepping over the cracks in flagstone pavements; it's a mild form of insanity. I do it myself occasionally."

"So do I."

"Do you? Well, most city men do. Children play games in this way and men keep it up all their lives. Sometimes they vary it by stepping on all the cracks and taking particular care not to miss one. There goes another."

In the course of a half-hour no less than fourteen men were observed going up and down this pavement stepping over the cracks. Of fifteen men taken at random, twelve acknowledged that they occasionally practiced this peculiar habit. They said they didn't know why they did it, and sometimes did it unconsciously, but the interesting fact remains that about seventy-five per cent of city men are crack steppers.—Philadelphia Times.

A Young Lady President.

From the Altoona Tribune.

In Huntingdon county, Pa., there is trouble in a lyceum. A cultivated young lady has been elected to its presidency, and the embarrassed debaters know not how to address her. The Tribune is appealed to for relief and is assured that, until its instructions are received, "she must continue to blush her responses to all sorts of addresses, from Mr. President to Dear Madame."

The awkwardness of the situation is due entirely to the lack of precedent. People are built like cars to run on a fixed track. We have all been accustomed to Mr. President and many of us to Mrs. President. There can be no reason in the world why Miss President should not be just as proper as either of the others. But, if this seems too strange, there is an easy evasion in the use of the parliamentary personification of "The Chair." Any presiding officer is properly recognized as "The Chair," as the judge is addressed as "The Court." The lawyer begins his argument with "If the Court please," or "If your Honor please." In a lyceum it is always proper, without reference to the sex or condition of the presiding officer, to open an address with "If the Chair please," and to use "The Chair" instead of the president.

She Positively Detested Unanimous Letters.

"Do you participate any trouble in sending your daughter off to school?" asked Mrs. Parvency of a lady who had a daughter of boarding-school age.

"Not in the least," was the reply.

"Why should I?"

"Oh, because young girls are so reliable to be attempted when away from home. There's always some young fellow ready to subtract their intention from their books."

"I know that there are temptations, but my daughter has always been a good girl, and I am not at all worried."

"Well, there's lots of insulation in that anyhow. But girls run such risks in getting letters that the writers do not resign their names to, and if there is anything I do protest, it is these unanimous letters."

Cooking schools are all very well in their way, but they won't reach their highest possibility of good until they teach young girls who intend to get married how to build the kitchen fire.

Ixion was the original bicyclist. He was chained to the wheel as a punishment for past offences. This, probably accounts for the sad expression which is borne upon the faces of all wheelmen, which may be set down as sort of a hereditary taint.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, in a recent lecture in New Orleans, said, "The women of the world, clasping their hands together, should encircle the globe with a pacific girdle, which would stifle the bitterness and desolation of war." To which the Springfield Republican responds: The circumference of the earth is 24,000 miles. Allowing four feet to a woman, it would take only 31,680,000 women to girdle the globe, hand in hand, and to sing the song of peace. It would just make the rings of Saturn turn green with jealousy though.

Dining in Persia.

Persian dinners are always preceded by pipes (bubble-bubbles), while tea and sweets are handed around. Then servants bring in a long leathern sheet and place it on the ground, the guests take their seats around it, squatting on the ground. A flat loaf of bread is placed before each man. Music plays. The dinner is brought in on trays and placed on the ground on the leather sheet; the covers are removed; the host says "Bismillah" (in the name of God), and in silence all fall to with their fingers. There is no talking at dinner, and when it is over all retire to rest or return to their homes at once.

Why He Didn't Eat Butter.

"Shall I help you to some butter, Mr. Smith?" asked the landlady of a Bloeker street boarding house.

"No, thank you."

"Don't you eat butter?"

"No, not now. I used to, but I've reformed, you know. I'm proud to say I am now a temperate man."

"I know, but I don't see why that

Bulwer Lytton's Bridge.

Where it Touches the Shores and the Great Columns in Midstream.

"What a beautiful bridge between old age and childhood is religion. How intuitively the child begins with prayer and worship on entering life, and how intuitively, on quitting life, the old man turns back to prayer and worship, putting himself again side by side with the infant," remarks Sir E. Bulwer Lytton, in his "Strange Story."

Yes, but between its distant abutments the bridge of life has many high and awful arches through which the wild waters dash and roar in wrath and desolation. Prayer and worship alone do not sustain these. Nature's solid rock must lie unshaken beneath, and human art and skill must rear and solidify the structure overhead. God's will is best exemplified in the law He has made for the creatures whom He has placed under their control. Neither the child's trustful "Our Father," nor the old man's "Forgive me not in the midst of mine infirmities," will lift this by the weight of a single grain.

Science and art, first—then faith and prayer—is the order of itself. Divinity bequeathed through its agents, and those agents are the discoverers of man; not in the vague announcements of prophets or seers. Is life a burden to you? Does time drag? Is your power weakened? You are not well. Your blood is sluggish and tainted, perhaps, or some important organ is torpid and overworked. This fact may have taken the form of dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, malaria, pains in the stomach, chronic headache, or any of a dozen other ills. PARKER'S Tonic will invigorate you, as fresh air invigorates those who have been shut up in damp, fetid cells. It is powerful, pure, delicious, scientific, safe—the keynote of the central arch of the bridge of life.

Unionville Notes.

Our Spring session of select school under the supervision of Mr. C. A. Wright closed on Friday with exercises of a calm, dignified nature, showing that the instructions during the past term have been based on solid work.

The grain in Union township is about equal to the average crop of former years, which is rather ahead of neighboring districts, but the grass is short and lacks that body which went to make up the crop of a year ago.

Mr. E. M. Griest is seriously contemplating whether to enter the lumbering business or not. Just imagine we see "Eddie" located on a shingle pile, in the Julian yard, counting boards for "Pap."

Each jingle of the "phone" brings to our ears something new concerning the brilliant appearance the court house in Bellefonte is assuming under the skillful workmanship of Messrs. L. J. and J. A. Bing, who, we are proud to say, are residents of this town, and can and will perform the work in the most artistic manner possible. Though we think it apropos, instead of painting the fish golden, that it be nicely speckled, to represent the finny tribe that His Honor Judge Furst is in the habit of angling.

Mr. Jno. G. Geary has added an attractive soda fountain to his hotel by which he can furnish his friends with a cool sparkling beverage so palatable to the taste this warm weather.

"Evolution" is largely considered by our scientists and ably argued pro and con. It may be a very good thing in its place, but as yet it has developed no plans to furnish board-walks in all parts of the town to be in readiness for the autumn mud.

Mr. W. Clarke Miller has about decided to go west—some Friday or Saturday evening as far as Port Matilda. We wish him a gay trip and a safe return.

R. E. Cambridge is rusticiating among friends in the lower end of the county. He left on Wednesday last and will join an excursion party on the Vanderbilt road on Saturday, and will take in the closing exercises of the Central State Normal School on his return. ADREM.

Mrs. Tilton at Home.

Once in awhile the question is heard, "What has become of Mrs. Tilton?" The little woman, who was a few years ago the most widely known American woman in the world, lives with her aged mother, Mrs. Morse, on Pacific street, in Brooklyn, in comfort and quiet. Ever since the remarkable scandal trial she has lived in the same way.

Rare books and various art works embellish and beautify the home. Mrs. Tilton is still the same quiet, pious little woman that she always was, only a shade or two sadder and much older. She has a rare faculty of trying to be always cheerful and believes fully in the efficacy of prayer and that what "God wills He will," and his creatures must follow His law to be saved hereafter. Her hair is snow white, her figure a little more robust and rounded, although still childish in stature and form.

Mr. Tilton has never stepped across that threshold since the trial. Certainly not Mr. Beecher. It would not be well for either one to make the attempt. The two sons, Carroll and Ralph, are young men now, both occupying good clerkships, and live with their mother. Carroll, the elder, is a Tilton in look and nature. Ralph is a mother's boy, a fine promising young character. The two daughters are both married and both mothers. Alice, the younger, lives in Chicago and Mrs. Tilton visited her not long since.

Two Mad Dogs.

JERSEY CITY, June 22.—Two mad dogs ran amuck in the vicinity of the Short Hills, Summit and Chatham, a few days ago, biting dogs and cattle wherever they found them. They made their way into Sisco's kennel, where several valuable dogs of rich sporting men were kept, and planted their teeth in a number. Sisco found it necessary to kill most of those bitten, among them the Irish setter Queen, known to gunners all over the country. The dogs in the Short Hills kennel also became infected and the kennel has been closed. Almost all the farmers in the region have killed their dogs, and two horses known to have been bitten have also been shot.

From the Mahdi's Camp.

LONDON, June 25.—Rev. Luigi Banomi, an Italian missionary priest, and for a long time a captive in the camp of El Mahdi, has made his escape and arrived at Dongola. Father Banomi reports that all the priests made prisoners during the rising in the Sudan and the march of El Mahdi are in good health. The magnitude of the revolt in Kordofan has been very much overrated, says Father Banomi, but he confirms the truth of the reports that the forces of El Mahdi have been repeatedly defeated by the garrison of Senaar. Father Banomi states, however, that famine and disease are ravaging and making a waste of Kordofan.

G. K. Weeks, of the Salvation Army in Dover, slipped so tired of waiting for his golden slippers Monday that he stole a pair of common cowhide boots.

I can truly say that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a true and reliable remedy, and is sold everywhere. My wife, Mrs. J. M. Miller, of Marion, Ohio, writes: "I had a severe case of Rheumatism, and was unable to walk for several weeks. I used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and in a few minutes, I was able to walk. I used it for a few more days, and it cured me. I am now well and happy. I can truly say that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a true and reliable remedy, and is sold everywhere."

Going for $35,000,000.
Boston, June 29.—Thomas J. Mulby of this city has resigned the superintendency of the North End Industrial School, and will go to Newfoundland, and then to England to look after the Churchill estate, as he is one of the nearest living heirs. The estate is supposed to be valued at $35,000,000, and is in money and real estate. Over 100 years ago Nicholas Churchill came to Newfoundland and engaged in the seal and cod fisheries. He was prosperous, and invested his surplus earnings in real estate in England and also in Newfoundland. At his death, about thirty years ago, he left all his property, amounting to some $10,000,000 or $12,000,000, to his daughter, Elizabeth Churchill, a whimsical lady living in England. Although she had many suitors, Elizabeth would accept none of them, and lived without marrying and died in 1876 at the age of 104 years. Mrs. Mulby, the mother of the claimant was a niece of Nicholas Churchill, and a cousin of Elizabeth. There are eight relatives of the ancient fisherman living in this country, and they have delegated Mr. Mulby to look after their joint interests.

Transfers and Removals.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—A number of transfers and removals took place in the treasury department to-day and it is expected more will be made to-morrow. Twenty clerks in the classified service were dropped from the rolls, and the force in the office of the commissioner of internal revenue and register were reduced by transfers to other offices. The former losses about thirty clerks and the latter about twenty. Most of the clerks dropped were, until recently, borne on the rolls of the internal revenue bureau but were detailed to work in other offices. The changes in the register's office are due to reduced appropriation.

Unhurt after Falling Five Stories.
NEW YORK, June 28.—Little Arthur Seggers, of No. 95 Third avenue, went to visit his aunt, Mrs. Miles, at No. 201 East Fourteenth street, yesterday afternoon. The house is five stories high. The first intimation that Mrs. Miles received that her nephew was on the premises was when she saw him flitting by her window on his way from the roof to the yard. Arthur was found in the yard in a decidedly dilapidated condition, but a surgeon from Bellevue said that no bones were broken and that he would soon recover. When he has occasion to descend from a roof again he will take the stairs.

Great Storm in France.
PARIS, June 29.—A terrible storm of wind and rain swept this city and vicinity to-day. Cellars were flooded, railways were washed out, and many buildings in process of erection were damaged or demolished.
A section of one of the streets sank into the sewer, and twenty persons were plunged into the water. Most of them were in an exhausted and almost dying condition when rescued. A boat containing twelve persons capsized on the Seine, and several were drowned. In the Department of Vosges seven houses and two bridges were destroyed by the flood.

Mrs. Dudley Acquitted.
NEW YORK, June 30.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Dudley, on trial for shooting O'Donovan Rossa, rendered a verdict this afternoon acquitting her on the ground of insanity. The jury was only in consultation about five minutes when they rendered a verdict. A motion was made to send Mrs. Dudley to the state insane asylum which her counsel opposed. The latter asked that his client be permitted to be returned to her native country and be placed in an institution there. The court will listen to arguments on this motion on Thursday.

County Feud.
FRANKFORT, Ky., June 29.—Governor Knott has ordered Major L. W. McKee and three companies of State troops to hold themselves in readiness to proceed at once to Moorehead, Rowan county, the scene of the Humphrey-Tolliver feud. The coroner of Rowan county, while en route to hold an inquest on the body of the man killed in the fight yesterday, was fired on, but whether or not he received injuries is not known. Troops will probably reach Moorehead to-morrow and be held subject to the orders of the County Judge.

Epidemic Abating.
WILKESBARE, Pa., June 30.—There have been no deaths from fever at Plymouth or new cases of the disease for the past two weeks. There are now twenty-two patients in the hospital, and they are rapidly recovering. Destitute families to the number of 122 are receiving aid from the relief committee. All four patients at Sugar Notch are pronounced out of danger. There have been two new cases of a mild type since the last report.

A Battle in Afghanistan.

LONDON, June 29.—A Bombay dispatch just received says: It is reported from Kabul that Isa Khan, supported by Russian allies, has risen against Abdullah Khan. Isa Khan marched upon Khana-I-Bad and seized the treasure there, valued at a million pounds sterling, and belonging to the ameer of Afghanistan. The political difficulties in Kuchgaria are becoming serious and reinforcements of troops are going northward.

Another London dispatch says: Advice from Teheran state that the rebel leader, Isa-Khan, one of the sympathizers of the deposed Ameer, Ayoub Khan at the head of a large number of followers, crossed the border from Turkestan into Afghanistan and marched on the city of Khanabad, which he captured after a desperate and sanguinary struggle, putting its defenders to flight. The rebels then looted the place and procured among the plunder £1,000,000, sterling, belonging to the ameer. This raid has caused intense excitement throughout Afghanistan. The Afghans openly accuse the Russians of having conspired at and planned the raid. Reprisals are threatened, and it is feared that complications of a much more serious nature than have as yet arisen may grow out of this raid. This news has caused considerable excitement in London. The foreign office has telegraphed Lord Dufferin for the fullest information with regard to the affair, and should it be proven that the Russian officials are in any way implicated a vigorous remonstrance will be made through the British representative at St. Petersburg.

Damage for Insult.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 28.—Ex-county Clerk Van Horn, of this city, has sued H. O'Neill & Co., the dry goods merchants of Twentieth Street and Broadway, New York, for $10,000 for the false imprisonment of Mrs. Van Horn. She went to O'Neill's store last Monday and a floor-walker named Wood told her that a certain hat was worth a penny. At the counter she was charged ten cents. Mr. O'Neill gruffly told her that Wood had never said the price was a penny. She asked Wood what he had said. "I said," he answered, "that the hat you are wearing is worth a penny."

"That hat has been paid for, and its value is none of your business," she replied.
"You go out or I'll put you out," Wood cried. She defied him, and he seized her by the arm and dragged her ten blocks to Captain Williams' station-house, where he charged her with disorderly conduct, and she was "booked" as a prisoner. She was afterward released.

The Worst in Fourteen Years.

BALTIMORE, June 28.—The heaviest rain storm for fourteen years visited this city this morning. The storm broke over the city at half-past 4 o'clock and continued for two hours. The rainfall was 4.47 and the destruction was very considerable. Upward of two hundred basements and cellars were flooded on the line of the Jones' falls and in all depressed portions of the city the streets were flooded, the sewers not having sufficient capacity to carry the water off. On the line of the Western Maryland railroad there were several washouts, detaining the early trains fully four hours. The damage will reach $50,000. Several families barely escaped with their lives.

Roberts Found Guilty.

WILKESBARE, June 27.—Samuel Roberts, Charles Parrish's defaulting paymaster, was to-day found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and to undergo imprisonment in the Luzerne county jail for one year and eight months at hard labor. The demurrer to the evidence entered by Roberts' counsel on Thursday left the matter in the hands of the president judge. Judge Rice found Roberts guilty of embezzlement, but not guilty of larceny as employee, with which he was also charged. An appeal was taken and the case will probably be carried up to the supreme court.

A Bottle's Long Journey.

OIL CITY, June 26.—Two months ago George Hemphill, of Franklin, placed a penny in a small bottle, with a note in which he requested the finder to buy a postal card and send him word as to where the bottle was found and under what circumstances. He then corked the bottle and threw it in the Allegheny River. Last Saturday he received the card from Miss Lillian Wray, at Maysville, Ky., stating she had found the bottle on the bank of the Ohio River at that place. It had traveled 570 miles.

Fatal Accident.

BEDFORD, Pa., June 29.—Grant Miller and Josiah Wolford were last evening having a friendly tussle in East St. Clair township when Wolford accidentally fell upon an open pocket knife which Miller had in his hand and was stabbed through the heart. He died almost instantly.

Indian Outlook.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 27.—General Augur has written from Fort Leavenworth assuring the governor that, in his judgment, founded on the latest reports from Fort Reno, no immediate danger to any portions of Kansas is to be apprehended from the Cheyennes or any other Indians.

Burchard Suspended.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The president to-day suspended Horatio C. Burchard, of Illinois, as director of the mint, and appointed James B. Kimball, of Bethlehem, Pa., in his stead. The change will take effect on July 1.

Will be Taken Care Of.

NEW YORK, June 28.—John McCollough, the eminent tragedian, was yesterday afternoon handed over to the care of the Bloomingdale insane asylum authorities by three of his closest friends.

Turning the Tables.

DETROIT, Mich., June 29.—John Mullen, of this city, who was recently arrested by Pittsburgh officers on the charge of embezzling funds from the estate of John Maloney at Pittsburgh, has turned the tables on his accusers. This morning Governor Alger heard his application for release and decided that there was not sufficient ground to warrant his extradition. Mullen was accordingly released at three o'clock. This afternoon Detective Barton was boarding a train for Pittsburgh when the Sheriff confronted him with a capias for his arrest. On his release this morning Mullen had at once commenced action for false imprisonment against Detective Barton and one Watterson.

Some of the Guilty Arrested.

TOLEDO, June 29.—Up to noon to-day two men and five women had been placed under arrest for complicity in the riot in the Polish settlement yesterday. Several of these are slightly wounded, bearing cuts, bruises or broken fingers. The parties directly implicated in yesterday's murders are doubtless already in custody, although not yet identified. Other arrests will follow until all suspected persons have been secured. No further disturbances have taken place.

The National Encampment.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—The drill ground at the National encampment was thrown open to the public to-day but only about 1,500 persons were present. The ground will be free to-morrow but after that an admission fee will be charged. To-day's programme comprised exhibition drills by different organizations. The competitive drill, it is thought, will commence on Thursday. General Slocum arrived to-night and will take charge of the camp to-morrow.

The Public Debt.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It is estimated that there has been a decrease of about $10,500,000 in the public debt during June. This will make a total reduction for the fiscal year, ending to-day, of about $65,000,000. The reduction during the previous fiscal year was $101,000,000. The expenditures during the fiscal year ended to-day were about $310,000,000, and the receipts about $321,000,000, or about $7,500,000 less than the estimate.

Tramps Raid a Town.

SHEENANDON, Pa., June 29.—Tramps made a raid on the eastern portion of this town last night, but were dispersed and three were arrested. During the melee the chief of police was struck with a stone and received a painful wound. One of the tramps in making his escape fell into a mine breach fifty feet deep and received fatal injuries.

It Started in a Rink.

TRENTON, N. J., June 29.—A fire which broke out in the new Landtown roller skating rink to-day spread to the opposite side of the street totally destroying a block of stores bounded by Fort Wellington, Murphy and Elgin streets. The total loss is estimated at $75,000; insurance $30,000.

Filling Up and More to Come.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—At midnight to-night it was estimated that nearly 1,500 militiamen were on the grounds of the national military encampment in Fairmount park. Over half of these arrived this evening. By noon to-morrow there will be about 3,500 citizen soldiers in the camp.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—The circus was here. It arrived quite early and announced its presence by a prolonged, shrill whistle of the locomotive, probably not knowing that a borough ordinance forbids such a noise. The long line of gaily painted wagons, carriages, etc., were unloaded at the station. When one unusually heavy wagon was passing along High street one of the wheels sank deep into a trench not properly filled and a half hour was spent in getting it out of the hole. About half the boys in Bellefonte came to see the elephant, but so much were they interested in the proceedings at the depot that the three monsters were taken from a car at the upper end of L. L. Brown's coal sheds and conducted out the back way before more than a score of boys knew anything of it. Somebody established a photograph tent near Mr. McCafferty's building on High street and reaped more or less money by taking the impressions of people on cardboard.
—We are informed that the Citizens' Cornet Band, of Milesburg, will go to Eagleville on the Fourth of July to participate in the celebration at that place. No place in this vicinity will be favored with finer music than Eagleville as the Milesburg band is not excelled by any musical organization outside the large cities.

Election of School Teachers and Principals.

The new law which regulates the election of school principals and teachers, and which has been signed by the Governor, is as follows:
An Act Regulating the Election of Principals and Teachers of Public, High and Normal Schools of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That on and after the passage of this Act, local school boards of the various townships, boroughs and wards, and boards of education, boards of control and other bodies having authority under the laws of this Commonwealth to elect principals and assistant teachers of Public, High and State Normal schools of said Commonwealth, may elect principals and assistant teachers holding the grade of "Professional Certificate" for two successive school terms; and those holding the grade of "Permanent Certificate" or diplomas issued by State Normal schools of this Commonwealth, for three successive school terms. Provided that any teacher or principal may be dismissed by any of the aforesaid boards at any time, when in the judgment of the board there are not enough pupils to warrant the continuance of said teacher; and provided, further, that any of the aforesaid boards shall have power, at any time, to dismiss any principal or assistant teacher in their employ, for any of the causes mentioned in section 23 of the School Laws of this Commonwealth.

More Amusements for the Fourth.

We have received the following announcements, which we believe to be authentic. At least, we have consulted Mr. Chas. Heisler on the subject and he says they will really occur.
There will be a balloon ascension in front of the Bush House by Prof. Waldry, of Philadelphia, on July 4, at 3 o'clock p. m.

Also a tub race for prizes of $5, $3 and $2 from railroad bridge to the falls, the one taking the apple from the string to be awarded first prize.

Wheelbarrow, sack and running races will also take place.

Milesburg band in attendance afternoon and evening and will discourse music from Bush House balcony. Fireworks in the evening.

Who Was He?

Among other notices in the Press of editors attending the Thirteenth Excursion, who spent Monday in Philadelphia, we find the following: "A member of the Editorial Association, who shall be nameless because of the high regard we entertain for his family, stepped into a Chestnut street barroom yesterday and called for brandy and peppermint. The articles were placed before him, and when he poured a gill of brandy and half as much peppermint extract into the glass the attendant expostulated, saying that if he drank that it would cremate his liver. 'Never you mind,' returned the able journalist, 'I am running patent insides this year.'"

Beware of Beet Greens.

As "beet greens" are common just now on many tables, the following from the Middletown Argus may prove of interest to those who indulge in the luxury: "A Deposit lady who had 'beet greens' for dinner the other day, accidentally discovered a white worm imbedded in a leaf after they were cooked. Closer investigation led to the discovery of millions of them in the dish of greens prepared for dinner. What the worm or bug is we do not know, but advise our readers to examine the beet tops they prepare for greens."

—We are informed that the Citizens' Cornet Band, of Milesburg, will go to Eagleville on the Fourth of July to participate in the celebration at that place. No place in this vicinity will be favored with finer music than Eagleville as the Milesburg band is not excelled by any musical organization outside the large cities.

Opinions of the Circus.

The attendance at the circus on Tuesday was not large, but, nevertheless everybody talked about it.

It was generally considered good, although it probably failed to pay expenses.

"The tumbling," said a young man who goes to all the circuses, "was extraordinary, and there was one man there who has not a bone in his body."

A young law student was most astonished at the 700-pound lady. He thought the side show was bigger than the circus.

"I have seen better circuses," said a young man who has been in the cattle raising business about two months. Everybody was covered with dust.

The circus will be in Altoona on the Fourth, where the admission will be 50 cents.

THE National Convention of the G. A. R. which was held in Portland, Maine, last week, was the largest gathering of the kind ever known and the greatest of any kind that ever assembled in that city. In the grand procession there were 23,000 veterans. The encampment was the occasion of drawing together many eminent men, among whom Gen. Logan seemed to figure with special prominence. The next encampment will be held in San Francisco. We acknowledge the receipt of numerous Portland papers giving full particulars of the exercises. We presume we are indebted to Commander Austin Curtin for this courtesy.

She was not Helen of Troy.

"What is your name, little girl?" asked the Sunday school teacher of a new scholar.

"Sheolen Miller, miss," was the answer.

"Sheolen?" replied the teacher, somewhat surprised; "isn't that rather a queer name?"

"Yes, miss, but before the Revised Version came out it wasn't so queer."

Then the teacher fell to thinking of spiritual matters.

—Mr. Andrew Calhoun, of Unionville, was in town Tuesday. He reports that the farmers in his neighborhood are beginning to make hay. The great drought, which affects all parts of the county, prevails there quite seriously, and is greatly injuring the growth of crops.

—Dr. E. W. Hale and his daughter, Miss Ella, sailed on Wednesday, July 1, for Europe to take a tour of England and the continent. They will be absent about two months.

Philipsburg Again.

The new iron fence enclosing the old Union cemetery is nearing completion. It is good and stout, as well as handsome, and is a credit to the contractors.

The roads are awful dusty. Oh, for that street sprinkler.

And now Taylor Miller is a bachelor, his better-half being on a visit to friends and relatives in Cumberland county.

Stephen Mitchell is shoving the razor and clicking the shears in Frank Chase's new barber shop on Presque Isle street. Steve knows how to do it.

Home grown "garden peas" will soon be plenty.

"What shall the harvest be?" is now the question.

Are you going to Niagara Falls on the 14th?

The parties who persist in pulling flowers while walking through the cemetery had better cease before they get into trouble, which they surely will if not stopped.

The Altoona Tribune can't see why they have to pay 50 cts. to see a 25 ct. show. It is "kinder" funny.

Some needed improvements are being made about the Lloyd House. Prop. Raw has the grit and knows what he is about.

Whoever says "ye local" of ye Journal don't like strawberry shortcake doesn't know anything about it. Don't it, Howard?

Street Commissioner Jackson, please take a "leedle" look at the condition of the boardwalk in front of your lot on corner of 7th and Spruce streets.

What has become of the correspondent from this place to the Harrisburg Telegram?

Philipsburg has no organized base ball club, while we surely have the material for a first class nine.

Where are you going to spend the glorious 4th?

Philipsburg has only eight lively stables. SOME ONE.

Don't Know What to Do with Them.

In view of the fact of the arrest and imprisonment of members of the Salvation Army in Williamsport last week a meeting of ministers and other representative citizens was held in the Court House in that city on Sunday to consider and take proper action in the matter. Speeches were made by such gentlemen as Rev. E. J. Gray, President of Dickinson Seminary, and ex-Judge Samuel Linn. The sense of the meeting is expressed in the following resolution, which was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, That if instead of prosecuting, if not persecuting, a little band of Salvationists, who to say the least, are harmless, upon a mere technicality of doubtful application, the mayor and police constable, of this city would manifest the same zeal in arresting, and under oath, informing upon profane swearers, inebriates, gamblers, prostitutes, Sabbath breakers, and law violating liquor sellers and druggists, who really are offenders against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth as such cases come to their personal knowledge, while they would only be discharging their legitimate duties as officers, they would nevertheless command the approval and thanks of all good, law and order loving citizens.

Measures were adopted to liberate the Salvationists.

Letter List.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the Post Office at Bellefonte, Centre county, Pa., June 29, 1885:

Mrs. Annie Auman, W. Bowden, James Brown, Lot Clem, John Clark, Colton Bros., Mrs. Kate Davis, Miss E. Emerick, Robert Emil, Jno. Etters, James J. Fetzer, A. Gramley, Mrs. Annie Geare, Joseph W. Lucas, Geo. C. McKee, Mrs. Lew. Marshall, John J. McCartney, Lowrey Markle, John L. Markle, Jr., Miss McElhatten, Wm. McCann, Samuel J. Musser, Miss Mary Nearhood, George Schumacker, Charles Schalausky, Patrick Thomas, Joseph Valentine, C. C. Warner, Miss Christie A. Wilson, John Williams, D. L. Zerby.

Persons asking for letters named in the above list will please say they are advertised.

—Mrs. Mary Moyle, of Everette, Bedford county, on Sunday attempted to light her kitchen fire with a can of kerosene, with the usual result. The oil caught fire, the can exploded, and the fragments of glass and tin were scattered all over the room. Mrs. Moyle was ablaze with fire when she ran out of the house, but before the flames could be subdued she was horribly burned. She lingered in misery a few hours when death ended her sufferings.

A Father's Mistake.

Young Mr. Featherly, a guest, declined cake, and Bobby's eyes grew big with astonishment.

"Don't you want any cake?" he asked.

"No, Bobby," replied Featherly, "I seldom eat it."

"How's that, pa?" inquired Bobby, turning to the old gentleman; "you said that at the dinner table Mr. Featherly always takes the cake."

—Our regret is simply inexpressible when we reflect that this week ends the strawberry season.

—Four or five gentlemen have made arrangements to erect a band stand in front of the Brockerhoff House from which, on the afternoon and evening of the Fourth of July, the Zion band will discourse music. The concerts will be from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 in the evening. There will also be bicycle races on Allegheny street some time during the Fourth.

—The lawn social on the Presbyterian chapel lawn Friday evening was an elegant affair and quite successful. The ladies exhibited much taste in making the lawn look very beautiful and attractive. All the refreshments were of the finest description. The receipts exceeded $60, of which more than $45 are profits. The ladies are to be congratulated on the result.

—We hear of the death at Spring Mills on Monday morning of Mr. Sol. Edinger, of Woodward. He will be remembered as the unfortunate man who attempted to commit suicide about six weeks ago at Potter's Mills. We do not know whether his self-inflicted injuries had anything to do with his death or not.

—The cross which was lost from a lady's watch chain on Thursday and advertised for in Friday's Daily was returned to Williams Bros' store the same night and the young lady who found it received a suitable reward. That's quick newspaper work.

—The people of Williamsport permit patent medicine men and bands of music to blockade the streets, but arrest members of the Salvation Army for so doing.

—The expenses of keeping the poor people of the borough of Bellefonte for the month of June, 1885, amount to $95. This includes fuel, clothing and provision.

J. M. KEICHLIN, O. P.

—There is a letter in the Bellefonte post office addressed "Mr. John F. Carson, Haneyville, Centre Co., Pa." The address is wrong.

—Great statue of beloved Liberty. A royal welcome would we give to thee, Thou art the substance of an artist's dream, A sign of international esteem. Thou art not to sit, nor drink, nor eat, But art content to stand upon thy feet, And yet it seems a molar-drawing task To get the lines to grant the boon you ask. Thy monstrous feet cast far into the shade The pedals of the famed Chicago maid; Let experience be our formal plea For not providing shelter for thee. We've got the will, and, by the ocean blue, We'll get the money and foundation, too, And set thee on thy feet, oh statue great, To light the harbor and the Shield Gate. Columbus Dispatch

Regular Boarder vs. Stranger.

Pretty waitress (to stranger in country hotel)—There's beef steak. (To Charley, who has just come in to breakfast) Good morning, Charley.

Charley (regular boarder)—Good morning, Jennie.

Pretty waitress (to stranger)—There's beef steak, mutton—. (To Charley)—You weren't at the singing school last night, Charley.

Charley—No, I was at the store. Have a good time?

Pretty waitress—Splendid. (To stranger)—There's beef steak, mutton chops, fried—. (To Charley)—Blanch Jones was asking after you yesterday, Charley.

Charley—Was she? What did you tell her?

Pretty waitress—Oh, didn't tell her anything. (To stranger)—There's beef steak, mutton chops, fried fish, ham and—. (To Charley)—Us girls are going to have a picnic next Saturday if we can get through our work in time, Charley.

Charley—That so? Any gentlemen permitted?

Pretty waitress—We don't know yet. (To stranger)—There's beef steak, mutton chops, fried fish, ham and eggs and baked potatoes. Give me your order, please.

Reform in Salutation.

I wonder why it is that intelligent men are mere parrots in the matter of salutations. A man meets an acquaintance on the street and he says:

"Howdy?"

"Howdy," is the answer, and so they pass on.

Or it may be if they are not in too much of a hurry:

"Good morning?"

"Good morning; pleasant day," and even if they stop long enough to shake hands it is probable that they will say nothing more. These salutations mean nothing and they are not even ordinarily pleasant. Yet everybody uses them, however, in spite of the fact that they are rankly disrespectful and use has sanctioned a very bad custom.

Would it not be better when an acquaintance meets you and says, "How do you do?" instead of firing his question back at him verbatim et liberatim, to reply as to any other query? At present he asks a question, you ask the same question, and this rigamarole being gone through both pass on convinced of having done their individual and combined duties.

A sharper brought twenty-five Italians from Toronto, Canada, to Harrisburg, promising them work and charging them $50.25 apiece. Then he deserted them.

On Monday the green glass bottle factories of the Pittsburgh district closed until September, the usual summer holiday.

A Barber's Trick.

I remember, by the way, of a trick a barber connected with a well hotel used to play. He went to the theatre and opera a good deal, and always in faultless evening dress. He seldom went to the expense of purchasing a seat; but having paid for admission he would post himself in a conspicuous position near one of the proscenium boxes, and at intervals make smiling and gracious bows to imaginary persons in various parts of the house. The vain little mugwump profoundly enjoyed having people who did not know him fancy that he was some widely-known man about town.

Triumph of Science.

A Paris photographer worried himself nearly to death taking an instantaneous negative of a railway train in motion, only to discover that he might just as well have taken his time to it and photographed a train standing still, as the appearance of the negative was precisely the same.

SPECIAL MENTION.

—It is a mistake to suppose that the innocent looking cucumber will injure anyone who eats it. The only difficulty is that it is not properly prepared for use. When properly prepared it is as harmless as it is refreshing.

Physicians' Wine of the Oporto Grape.

Physicians say they have been using Speer's Port Grape Wine for years to the entire satisfaction of their patients and themselves, and take great pleasure in recommending the Port, Burgundy and Claret to the public as the most reliable they can find. The Port is especially recommended for consumptives, the aged and for females generally. For sale by druggists.

Want Mr. Hay's Place.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The condition of First Assistant Postmaster General Hay's health is so bad that it is generally felt that he cannot hold out much longer, and the politicians are at work to name his successor. Ex-Congressman Metchler, of Pennsylvania, who was an applicant when Hay was appointed, is not thought to be in the race, and his friends charge that Mr. Randall was not at any time enthusiastic in his behalf. Ex-Governor Curtin, on the contrary, is a strong Metchler man. The Maryland delegation in congress, headed by the all-powerful Senator Gorman, are at work with might and main to secure the promotion of A. Leo Knott, the second assistant postmaster general. They urge in behalf of Knott that he is a thorough democrat who will require no charges but will put out the cross-roads postmasters simply on the ground that they are republicans, and that he has the physical vigor to endure the strain of the most arduous position in the post-office department. They say that he will not lie on a lounge and answer congressmen and others having business with the office, in a feeble whisper. There are, however, other candidates, and such a scramble will doubtless ensue that Knott is by no means sure of the place, notwithstanding the powerful influences by which he is supported.

Death Prevents a Wedding.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—It has been known for some time past among the German residents of this city that Dr. Emil Bessels, the scientist, who was on the Polar Arctic Expedition, and Madame Ravenna, the singer, were contemplating marriage. Saturday last was the date fixed upon, but when the carriage containing a friend of the Doctor arrived at the Smithsonian Institution to take the prospective bridegroom to the wedding, it was found that, instead of being arrayed in his wedding garments, Dr. Bessels was confined to his bed by a sudden attack of sickness. The wedding ceremony was then postponed until last Monday, but when, on that day, the bridal couple reached the residence of the minister, Rev. Mr. Schneider, they met with another disappointment in the absence of the minister in Baltimore. Rev. Mr. Schneider was not aware that they had changed the time of the wedding. Yesterday all the arrangements were made for the marriage, the minister was informed and the friends notified. The expectant bridegroom drove to the house of his bride to take her to the minister's, but was shocked to learn that she had been taken suddenly and seriously ill. The progress of the disease was so rapid that by evening Madame Ravenna was dead. She was to have been married at 12 o'clock.

The Mexicans and Indians.

GUAMAS, Mexico, June 25.—Two engagements with the Yaqui Indians occurred on the 20th and 22d insts. Two hundred Yaquis and six Mexicans were killed. A grand attack will be made on the 24th instant by all the Mexican forces under Cosman. Three Americans are reported killed near Samaripa by the Apaches, part of Geronimo's band. No names are given.

The Yaqui Indians, who have been giving the Mexicans so much trouble for some months past, claim to hold the title to their lands from the king of Spain, and do not recognize the republic of Mexico. No taxes or imposts are levied on them, or, if levied, they have not been collected. They are a hardy agricultural race, living on small patches of fertile soil on the borders of the Yaqui river, which flows through the state of Sonora, in the northwestern corner of the republic. They steal stock when an opportunity offers, but have rarely in the last few years committed any murders. Cajima, their chief, is a man of fair education for Mexico, and a stern ruler. He has absolute control over them.

An Elephant Clearing out a Circus.

LAFAYETTE, Mich., June 24.—During the performance of a circus here yesterday, a large elephant became infuriated and turned upon the 8,000 persons assembled under the canvas. He tore up the seats, smashed the furniture, and made havoc generally. Women fainted, children screamed, and a general stampede followed. The enraged elephant, after clearing out the canvas, made a break for the woods near by, and mired himself in an adjacent swamp. After much difficulty he was extricated, but five bullets were shot into his hide to tame him. Amid the panic numbers of limbs were broken and much property was lost and damaged. No fatalities occurred.

A Bigger Man than Hendricks.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—The Democrats made everything ready for a grand reception to Vice-President Hendricks at the Jeffersonian Club to night, but when they came to enter the rooms the key was in the hands of an unfeeling deputy sheriff. The landlord had attached the furniture for rent. There was a hurried consultation, an assessment was levied and then, after some delay, Mr. Hendricks was brought in and lionized.

A Child Whirled around a Shaft.

CINCINNATI, June 26.—Annie Murray, a bright little girl aged 10, was caught in the shafting at Hunter & Cole's sawmill, yesterday, and whirled around at the rate of thirty revolutions a minute and shockingly mangled, dying soon after being rescued.

Troublesome Indians.

FORT RENO, I. T., June 24.—The trouble with the Cheyenne Indians which is becoming more serious every day, has been growing ever since 1874, when Mr. Miles, the agent at the Cheyenne and Arapahoe agency, Darlington, I. T., on returning from the beef pens was assailed by two young Cheyenne bucks who clubbed his horse and drew their rifles on him. Since then there has been a growing tendency to disobey their agent in matters pertaining to their welfare, and the nation has been gradually getting more saucy, impudent and independent. They are now living and acting in open resistance to wishes of the government, as made known by its representative, Mr. Dyer, the present agent. The tribe can muster between 800 and 1,200 fighting men, mostly young warriors, who did not participate in the last war of 1874. They are almost without exception armed with modern repeating rifles. The disarming of the Indians has generally been practically a farce. They manage to conceal their good arms and turn over only useless ones. They are now better armed than ever before, and are capable of doing an immense amount of damage if they go on the war path, which they are confidently expected to do. General Dyer recently notified the tribes that he would issue them their annuity, and on the day appointed the "dog soldiers" rode into the agency armed cap-a-pie and informed the agent, through chiefs, that they would not receive the goods, and if any were given out they would be taken from the parties and destroyed.

The Pendleton-Marie Nuptials.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Frank Key Pendleton, a young Cincinnati lawyer and son of George H. Pendleton, the Minister to Germany, was married this afternoon in Zion Episcopal Church, in this city, to Miss Sallie Marie, the niece and adopted daughter of Peter Marie, the wealthiest member of the Marie family, a famous broker and investor in Western railroads. Pink and white were the colors worn and roses and daisies were the only blooms permitted to be shown at the wedding. The bride wore a white satin dress, with train covered with Valenciennes lace worn at her grandmother's wedding. Her ornaments were pearls and diamonds. She carried a bouquet of white roses in her hand and a diamond star held orange blossoms pinned with her long lace veil in her hair. The bridesmaids, cousins of the bride, were dressed in white mull, covered with Valenciennes lace, and carried bouquets of daisies. The church was ornamented with tree palms, laurel wreaths, pink roses and ox-eye daisies. After the ceremony a wedding reception was given at Mr. Marie's residence in West Nineteenth street.

Annexing the Hawaiian Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser in a recent issue published the following: "We have been informed from a reliable source that Ex-Minister Daggett has been entrusted with a commission to Washington by his Majesty on matters of importance connected with the affairs of this kingdom." In an interview on the above subject Mr. Daggett, who arrived here from Honolulu yesterday, acknowledged the truth of the extract; but, he said, "I am not at liberty to state the object." It has been ascertained from other sources that Mr. Daggett's secret mission is for the purpose of opening negotiations for annexation of the Sandwich Islands to the United States.

The Lost Ten Tribes of Israel.

LONDON, June 24.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a hitherto unpublished proclamation of the ameer of Afghanistan, issued in 1882. It reviews the history of the Afghans, claiming that they are descendants of the Lost Ten tribes of Israel. It traces their descent from Adam through Jacob, their subjection in Egypt, their deliverance therefrom by Moses, their wanderings in the desert and their settlement in Syria under the ameer of Saul and Solomon, to the Babylonian captivity, their release, their wanderings on the hills of Ghor and their final settlement in Afghanistan. It concludes by exhorting the Afghans to trust in God, who will preserve them from their terrible enemy, Russia.

Gen. Grant Still at His Book.

Mr. McGREGOR, June 24.—General Grant sat in the parlor during the forenoon and wrote nearly an hour and revised some proof sheets of his book. He appeared on the cottage veranda shortly before noon, but remained outside only a short time. About 2 o'clock he settled in his chair to sleep and rest. The General sat upon the piazza much of the afternoon, after being aroused from his short sleep. Dr. Shrady arrived this afternoon. He comes to examine the General and consult with Dr. Douglas. An official bulletin giving the General's condition will then be issued.

A Rather Discouraging Showing.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The statement of business of all lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburgh and Erie, for May, as compared with May, 1884, shows a decrease in net earnings of $284,199, and a decrease for five months of 1885, as compared with the same period in 1884, of $1,418,800. All lines west of Pittsburgh and Erie, for the five months of 1885, show a deficiency in meeting all liabilities of $585,290.

Mr. Cleveland Invited to Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—A committee called on the President this morning and invited him to be present at the competitive military exercises to be held at Fairmount Park during the encampment of national soldiers there from June 27 to July 6. The President was unable to say whether he could be present or not.

The Panama Revolt.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—A report has been received at the navy department from Admiral Jouette, announcing the failure by the parties interested to settle the disputes in the United States of Colombia. He says the political differences between the parties are of such a nature that a peaceable settlement is impossible at this time. Hostilities are likely to continue indefinitely. Government troops, he reports, are marching on Barranquilla. The revolutionary leaders, the admiral says, are the leaders of the liberal party in Colombia. The troubles on the isthmus, the admiral thinks, result from local politics and from the fact that many depraved characters congregate there. He anticipates hard fighting in Colombia.

A New Gold Discovery.

OMAHA, June 25.—The new gold discovery on Snake river, Oregon, is believed to be genuine and bona fide. Telegrams follow each other fast into the Union Pacific headquarters augmenting the wonder and importance of the new find. Doubts are many and expressions free that it is another Coeur d'Alene boom. Railway officials said to-day, however, that such fictitious excitement are never raised in midsummer when they can be exploded so soon. The new fields are in Union county Oregon, among the Eagle Creek, mountains. A new camp known as Pine Valley, of 200 men, has been formed, and parties are pouring in at the rate of fifty a day. The mining consists of placer and quartz.

A Few more Vetoes.

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Governor Pattison this afternoon refused to put his signature to the bill for additional copies of Snell's Hand-Book. It was vetoed on the same ground that other bills on the same subject were. The act in relation to livery stable keepers was disapproved because the title does not reveal the purpose of the act, and it might therefore be applied to other property. The act authorizing courts of common pleas to fix by rules fees of witnesses was also vetoed. He holds that there is a law governing this subject, and this one would cause confusion and annoyance.

$35,000 for a Meissonier.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Mr. A. A. Munger, of Chicago, has bought for $35,000 Meissonier's "Vidette," brought here by Mr. Haseltine, of Philadelphia. This, it is asserted, is the largest sum paid for a painting in the United States, although there are several pictures owned in New York that were bought abroad at a higher price than this. Mr. Munger is a member of the firm of Munger, Wheeler & Co., owners of grain elevators here. Another picture of Haseltine's collection, "Sunshine and Shadow," by Troyan, was bought to-day by Edward Pallas, iron manufacturer, of Milwaukee, for $12,000.

No Room.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Sexton Wells, who yesterday interred another body in a vault in St. Paul's Churchyard, at Broadway and Vesey streets, says there is no room for any more, except as the crumbling bones from time to time create a vacancy. "I think I believe in cremation," said he. "What we are going to do for space to bury our dead in I don't know. Greenwood Cemetery already has a population of 200,000 and will soon have no room at all. It will be necessary to go far away from the city for burial."

Serious Mishap to a Builder.

SHEKANDAH, June 25.—This morning, while a number of men were engaged in bringing five large pieces of glass packed together in one case from the Lehigh Valley Railroad depot, the case, which weighed fifteen hundred pounds, slipped and rolled off the wagon to the ground, breaking the glass into pieces and crushing the right leg of Aaron Stoyer so seriously that amputation is considered necessary. Mr. Stoyer is forty-seven years of age and a prominent builder and contractor of this place.

The Burning Coal Mine.

ASHLAND, Pa., June 24.—The fire in North Ashland mines is still burning. Pumps will be erected to night which will force water from the branches near the colliery into the slope. The supply of water is very low and may run out at any moment and thereby cause delay until water can be obtained from other sources. An exhaustion of the water supply would allow the fire to spread considerably.

Lord Coleridge's daughter Married.

LONDON, June 24.—Charles Warren Adams and the Hon. Mildred Coleridge, daughter of the Lord Chief Justice of England, were married to-day. A maternal uncle was the officiating clergyman. Lord Coleridge refused to attend the wedding, and in consequence no other member of the family was invited. All the members of the family of the late Lady Coleridge were present.

An Accident to the Vice President.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—Vice President Hendricks met with a slight accident yesterday morning. A runaway team ran into the carriage in which he was driving with Professor Wayland. One of the hind wheels was knocked off and Mr. Hendricks was thrown partly out on the road, but sustained no injury, and quickly picked himself up. The ride was finished in another carriage.

Demanding a Home for Widows.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—An Ohio widow has written to the Postmaster-General commending his action in refusing to expend the $40,000 appropriated by Congress for the foreign mail service, and suggesting that he expend a few thousand dollars of the appropriation in endowing a home for "pure, high-toned, and virtuous widows," with which class she is connected.

Our Obelisk.

DEER PARK, Md., June 24.—At the Convention of Civil Engineers to-day Prof. Egleston read a paper. He said it was true that the obelisk in Central Park, New York, was undergoing decomposition. This was due to the fact that the obelisk was brought from a dry to a moist climate, under the influence of which it was being rapidly decomposed. Prof. Egleston said he might go into Central Park after a heavy frost and pick up from the ground as many relics of the obelisk as he pleased. He gave it as his opinion that unless the obelisk was placed under shelter in some museum it would within fifteen years be decomposed beyond repair.

A Steamer Sinks.

LIMA, via Galveston, June 24.—Great excitement has been caused here by the loss of the steamer Italia. The disaster is much deplored as a blow to the new enterprise and commerce in general. She carried a crew of eighty-four and fifty-four passengers. The number saved is reported at sixty-nine. The cargo, of which the greater part was for the coast ports, was nearly all insured.

The Italia struck a steep point near Lomas about 2 a. m. Friday and sank in fifteen minutes in deep water. Out of 134 passengers and crew, 65 were drowned.

A Secretion that Contaminates the Blood.

When the bile is diverted from its proper channels, into the blood, which is always the case in liver complaints, it ceases to be a healthy secretion, and becomes a poison. Its abnormal presence in the circulation and stomach is indicated by the suffusion of the skin with a hideous saffron tinge, by headaches, vertigo, nausea, pain in the right side and under the right shoulder blade, by indigestion, obstruction of the bowels, and other minor symptoms. Order may be substituted for this state of chaos, and further bodily evil averted by using the beneficent alterative and tonic, Hostetter's stomach Bitters, which, by relaxing the bowels, promotes the escape from the circulation of bilious impurities, besides rendering the action of the liver regular, and removing every trace of dyspepsia. This pleasant and purely vegetable anti-bilious medicine is not only infinitely more effective than any form of mercury, but it is on account of its freedom from hurtful properties, infinitely to be preferred to that poisonous drug.

A Polite Burglar.

DETROIT, June 22.—At an early hour on Sunday morning Daniel Scotten, a wealthy Detroit manufacturer, was visited by a polite burglar, who suavely regretted to disturb him, but he desired the valuables of the family, which he secured, to the value of $700. He then visited the residence of Poor Commissioner Heames, from whom he received jewelry and silverware valued at $800. In his conversation he referred to his visit to Judge Brown of the United District Court, expressing regret that it was necessary for him to fire at the Judge, and rejoicing that he did not wound him.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES aid most wonderfully in the bodily and mental growth of infants and children. For perfect growth there must be a large amount of phosphites supplied to the brain; if there is an insufficiency, the nerves become hungry, and oftentimes starved; the nights are restless, and consequently the days are fretful. The ill effects of the brain starvation of little children do not end with childhood, but feebleness is continued through life.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES is indispensable to all children who would learn easily and retain what they learn. Every thought carries away a moiety of the vital energy of the brain, and if it is not resupplied there is brain hunger. Every child who is studying should take the VITALIZED PHOSPHITES daily during the study months; even with those who are making no special effort, a daily dose as an occasional nutriment will give an assured means of keeping up both growth and vigor. Remember, it is not a medicine, it is a special Food to brain and nerves.

A Bridegroom must be Respected.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—A jury here this afternoon gave a verdict of $100, damages to Joshua Cuppola against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Cuppola married on March 2, and with a sleeping-car ticket for himself and bride, went to take the train and found the sleeping-car overwhelmed with the Duckworth Club, on its way to the inauguration. The conductor refused to recognize his ticket. Cuppola remained in Cincinnati and brought suit for $2000. The judge charged the jury to duly consider the fact that Cuppola was freshly married.

Opening the Fountains.

In numberless bulbs beneath the skin is secreted the liquid substance which gives the hair its texture, color and gloss. When this secretion stops, the hair begins at once to become dry, lustreless, brittle and gray. Is that the condition of your hair? If so, apply Parker's Hair Balsam at once. It will restore the color, gloss and life by renewing the action of nature. The Balsam is not an oil, not a dye, but an elegant toilet article, highly appreciated because of its cleanliness.

We would like to find a scientist in this enlightened country who can satisfactorily explain how a boy's shirt gets turned wrong side out a warm day when he has "been right to school and back." There never was a boy who could imagine how it happened.

—On the Fourth of July a train will leave Lemont for Lewisburg at 5:30 o'clock a. m., and will start on the return trip to Lemont at 3:40 p. m. The question is: How are Bellefonters to reach Lemont in order to ride on that train?

—The Presbyterian Mite Society will hold a lawn festival on the chapel grounds on Friday evening, the 26th, for the benefit of the organ fund. The lawn will be brilliantly lighted with electric lights and the best of ice cream, water ices, strawberries, cake and coffee served by the young ladies.

—On Wednesday morning Mr. Ed. Garman and Mr. John Bullock went for a ride over the new railroad. They started at 5 o'clock, before breakfast, expecting to return in an hour. The "folks at home" waited for their return, but nothing was seen of them until 1 o'clock p. m., when they arrived as hungry as bears. The route they went over is a new one, not often traveled, and it is possible they lost their way.

A Reply to "Progress."
The desperate struggle of "Progress" to write something smart in the letter published in this morning's Centre Democrat is pitiable and elicits our sincere compassion. Its paucity of sound sense is rendered more ridiculous by the wretched construction of its sentences and execrable punctuation. We quote, for illustration, the introductory sentence—

"Being a reader of your paper, and the Democratic party having control of all the important offices of our Country, President, Governor and last but not least, the Chief Burgess of our town."

There the sentence ends. Its construction implies that the general Democratic dominance which it describes is the cause of something, but he fails to state just what it is. So we might criticise the entire article, but do not consider it worth while. Its bad English leads us to doubt that it was really written by a Republican; and we know of only one so-called Republican to whom we could attribute its authorship. He is a person whose recent communications we have been compelled to decline because in them he has vented his private malice upon parties to whom this paper is not opposed. The Daily News and the Republican are willing to be controlled by the Republican party, but will not be used by any one individual in that party to attack those with whom he may have a private quarrel. In regard to the charge that the REPUBLICAN is edited with scissors, we reply that it contains more original matter than all the other papers in the county combined. The last paragraph written by "Progress" is illogical, for in it he asserts that the REPUBLICAN offers no opposition to Democracy, and also asserts that "a party cannot live without opposition." If what he writes is true (which it is not) the tactics of the REPUBLICAN are the best to cause the ruin of Democracy—a consummation which he as a Republican should most earnestly desire. We ask pardon of our intelligent readers for having devoted this much space to the communication, and await with interest the time when the Centre Democrat will offer "Progress" space in its columns to fight his private battles.

Another Accident to Comrade G. W. Rimer.
During the G. A. R. encampment in this place last summer, Comrade G. W. Rimer, of Fairmont Springs, Pa., fell, seriously injuring himself. He remained in Bellefonte several weeks, his medical and other expenses while here being met by Gregg Post, G. A. R. He also received a gift of a large sum of money contributed by the G. A. R. throughout the State.

A postal note from J. A. Rimer, of Fairmont Springs, informs us that on Monday night, about 11 o'clock, Comrade Rimer had a somnambulistic fit, during which he either fell or jumped from one of the up-stairs windows to the ground below, a distance of 16 feet. The result of this last-mentioned accident was to again injure his spine. He also strained the cords and muscles of his right arm so that he is now unable to move it. He hurt his head and knocked all his teeth loose, those on one side of his jaw having been entirely knocked out. He is unable to move.

Base Ball on the Fourth.
If there are any baseballists in Bellefonte with sufficient backbone we will have a little of the National game if nothing else on the Fourth of July. A picked nine made up of members of the Crescent Skating Club hereby challenges any nine in Bellefonte to play them a game on that day. They will play for $50, $25, $10 or for glory—anything to ensure a game. Now trot out a nine to meet these champions on the base ball field. Communicate with either Wilbur Harris at the post office or Ed. Garman at Garman's store.

It is about certain that this challenge will be accepted at once, and probably by the Acmes. Each nine will do its best between now and the Fourth to become proficient in the game and a lively contest is certain.

—Mr. H. Robb was the last person to leave Mingle's shoe store, on Thursday night, and forgot to close and lock the door. When the fun-loving clerk at the Brockerhoff House and some of the guests at the hotel discovered this fact they thought it would be a brilliant idea to go into the shoe business for themselves. They, therefore, hung out shoes and other articles and were prepared to make sales. Meanwhile, one of the borough police aroused the proprietor and informed him of what was occurring at his store. He came to the store as quickly as possible and turned the intruders out. The store should be secured just like other stores at night or there may be a real Robbery some night.

—Handsome new uniforms have arrived for Company B.

Railroad Meeting.

On Friday at 2 o'clock the stockholders of the Buffalo Run, Bellefonte and Bald Eagle R. R. met at the Bush House in this place, to approve or disapprove the contract with Mr. Frank McLaughlin for the construction of said railroad, and also to pass upon the propriety of mortgaging the railroad and its franchises for the purpose of raising funds to complete the grading of the road and to place the superstructure on it. Among the members of the board of directors present from a distance were Hon. Chas. A. Meyer, of Lock Haven, and Mr. Philip Collins, of West Philadelphia. Hon. Wm. A. Wallace was not present. The resignation of Edmund Blanchard, Esq., from the board of directors was received and Mr. Adolph Loeb elected in his place.

The contract with Mr. McLaughlin was approved and arrangements were perfected which enable the directors to complete the road before the close of the present year. The Board of directors as at present constituted is follows:

President, Gen. Jas. A. Beaver; Senator Wm. A. Wallace, Judge Chas. A. Meyer, Gen. Wm. H. Blair, and Messrs. Philip Collins, Robert Valentine, D. G. Bush, Frank McCoy, J. D. Shugert and Adolph Loeb.

—The Watchman, in commenting upon the action of council in appointing police, says: "But nowhere did they give themselves the powder to take this prerogative out of the hands of the Burgess and assume it themselves." Why, bless your souls, no powder was necessary. There is an act of assembly which authorized them to do so and that's of more use than powder in the State of Pennsylvania. Next thing we know somebody will be using powder or dynamite to accomplish their aims just because the Watchman suggests it as the force to be used.

—Two accidents are reported at Grenninger's saw mill, which is at present operating on Gentzel's tract in Penn township. On Wednesday evening, the 17th, Mr. Luther Shreckengast came into too close contact with the circular saw and as a consequence one of his arms was cut quite deeply just above the wrist. On the following evening Mr. Jacob Steiger, an employee of the same mill, had some of his toes mashed beneath heavy timbers which fell on them. Both accidents were painful.

—Nothing is more useful or beautiful than the trees which are increasing in number in Bellefonte and which are now in full and glorious foliage. Every street and highway should be bordered by these trees and every yard should contain a greater or smaller number of them, according to the available space. Arbor day was but slightly observed in this vicinity. Cannot a large number of trees be planted during the fall?

—We have often wondered what made the clock on the court house keep such wrong time and the fish on the steeple always indicate a north wind when a south wind was wanted. Now it is explained. For eight years that poor fish has been trying to swallow a copy of the Democratic Watchman and couldn't force it any further than its mouth. That's enough to make anything go wrong.

—The commencement exercises of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg and the Pennsylvania College at the same place were held last week. Nine persons graduated from the Seminary and twenty-three from the College. The directors decided at their last meeting on Wednesday hereafter to open the doors of the college to females, which will increase the attendance.

—The usual summer improvements are in progress to property in Millheim. A flagstone pavement has been laid in front of S. T. Frain's hotel and an application of light-colored paint will soon beautify the building. Dr. S. G. Gutelius' residence now presents that most tasteful of all exteriors—white with green blinds, and the Musser House is to be repainted in beautiful style.

—There are so many places to go to on the Fourth. There's Lewisburg, with its Centennial; Curwensville, with its oration by Francis Murphy; Howard, with its oration by Col. Hastings; and Philipsburg, with its horse races, that it perplexes us very much to decide which place to go to.

—Joseph Walker, of Somerset, on Saturday evening, June 20, while helping to place some very heavy timber used in the construction of a barn, one of them fell on and severely crushed his leg above the ankle.

—Hon. David Blair, an aged and respected resident of Huntingdon, died at his residence on Penn street in that borough at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, aged 72 years and 5 months.

National Guard Inspection.

On Wednesday night at 9 o'clock, Company B, N. G., was officially inspected by Brig. Inspector Major Jas. P. Sayre. The inspection was very thorough and the inspecting officer was highly praised by veterans who were present for his skill in conducting it, and we understand that the Major alluded to the company, privately, in very high terms. He was accompanied by Capt. R. C. Elder, of Company G, Lewistown. We gathered from references to the subject while in conversation with Major Sayre that the honors of the brigade inspection, thus far, belong to one of four companies, viz., Capt. Chas. J. Fox's company, Sixteenth regiment, at Bradford; Capt. Rutledge's company, Eighteenth regiment, at Pittsburgh; Capt. Amos Mullen's company, Fifth regiment, at Bellefonte, and Capt. Burchfield's company, Fifth regiment, of Altoona. Which of these four companies is ahead the Major did not divulge. The inspection proved to be a very pleasant affair.

—Fire started on Wednesday afternoon away up in the cupola of Gerberich, Hale & Co's flouring mill. It was caused by friction of the machinery. The employees believed they could extinguish it without help, but failing, gave the alarm. The Logan Hose Company was soon there and with a well-directed stream stopped the progress of the flames. But little damage was done. It is as well to caution the citizens of the town who are so willing on every occasion to tell the hose company that there is no fire, to be certain in future that such is the case, as such information gratuitously volunteered on Wednesday prevented the hose company reaching the fire as quickly as it would otherwise have done. The Undine hose company was also there and aided in deluging the roof with water.

School Superintendents for Townships.

The new law allowing a township superintendent of common schools where a township has a population of five thousand inhabitants, which has recently been enacted, is as follows: "The school directors of any city, borough or township in this Commonwealth having a population of over five thousand inhabitants, may, on the first Tuesday of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and every year thereafter, elect viva voce, by a majority of the whole number of directors present, one person of scientific acquirements and experience in the art of teaching, as city, borough or township superintendent for three succeeding school terms."

Excursion Tickets to Yellowstone National Park.

It is announced by the passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company that there has been placed on sale at all principal ticket offices of the company a stock of excursion tickets to Yellowstone National Park. These tickets will be sold in connection with Pennsylvania Railroad tickets to Chicago, thence by the several roads from that point to Council Bluffs or St. Paul, thence by the Union or Northern Pacific to Yellowstone Park. The tickets by both the Union and Northern Pacific routes bear liberal conditions as to limit of going and returning trips.

—It is said that when Harry Armstrong, who was a boarder at Armstrong's hotel in Lemont, discovered that the building was on fire he seized a valuable gun which he owned and leaped from the window. He left many valuables behind which were burned. Among them were twelve complete suits of clothing, all purchased during a recent visit to England. The gun was also brought from England and is a very fine one.

—On Sunday morning Rev. William H. Lingenfelter, of Clearfield, was driving to Blue Ball, Clearfield county, to attend a Children's Day celebration. When near the Beech Creek railroad the horse shied, the buggy was upset, Rev. Lingenfelter was thrown out and had his shoulder blade fractured and was otherwise badly hurt. Alex. Waring, the driver, was considerably bruised.

—A fire at Craintown, one mile below Philipsburg, on Tuesday morning, June 23, destroyed three houses. It started in John Crain's house and from there communicated to the residences of George Fernes and Mr. Hilderbrand. Water was scarce and prevented the firemen extinguishing the flames until they had burned themselves out. All the contents were saved. Loss, $1600.

—There is a young lady in Bellefonte who might, with profit, cultivate the acquaintance of her two sisters.

—Mrs. Henry Brown, of Hubersburg, fell quite violently a few days ago, breaking one of her arms.

Medical

HEALTH-STRENGTH-LONG LIFE

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's own BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.
This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health, will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorus that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe.
Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOSPHITES

CROSBY'S Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoric or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and wheat germ. It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principle dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fatty part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES contain in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES needs no digestion; it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES

And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensable in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and all mental or nervous disorders? Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1882.
I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as

Dr. Sherman.

Rupture

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 19 DEXTER ST.
Dr. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 79. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 270 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," he said, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I knew the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully obliterated all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours,
REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlies in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury to the system, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing illustrations of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and endorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. Note.—No operation or detention from business. Patients from a distance can receive treatment and leave for home same day.

—"Empress" is a big elephant.

—There was quite a large market Tuesday morning.

—He who eats cherries can hardly avoid eating worms.

—Strawberries are growing less by degrees and exceedingly expensive.

—Mr. Chas. Hewes is now occupying his new Howard street residence.

—Overcoats became suddenly and temporarily fashionable Monday evening.

—A new bridge is in process of construction in the vicinity of the Nail Works.

—Miss Jennie Walker is now engaged in Finkbinder's photograph gallery.

—Some small boys do not consider that the Fourth of July can compare in importance with circus day.

—What a cause it is for gratitude that there is an abundant supply of pure, cold water these dry times.

—The potato bug appears to be extremely numerous just now, but he arrived too late to do much damage.

—A very large number of ladies and gentlemen made a trip over the new B. N. and L. R. R. Monday afternoon.

—A woman named Eliza Colpetzer, of this place, was taken Monday, by the deputy sheriff, to the insane asylum at Danville.

—The Y. M. C. A. of Tyrone celebrated its anniversary on Friday evening last. Mr. Bowen, assistant State Secretary, being present.

—That elegant solid stone stairway which Major Wm. F. Reynolds is putting at the front entrance to his house promises to be very grand and costly.

—We learn that Mr. Powers, a gentleman living on Lamb street, received a sun-stroke on Saturday afternoon, which it was at first feared would be fatal.

—June departed with a cold wave which rendered fire very comfortable. July is ushered in with rising mercury and a general prospect of warmer temperature.

—The 17-year locusts have killed and injured more than one hundred young peach trees for John Oberholzer, of Fermanaugh township, Juniata county.

—We are authorized to announce that the Acme base ball nine have accepted the challenge of the Skating Club to play a game on the Fourth. Now, announce the time and other details of the game.

—There is a movement on foot in Williamsport to close the stores every Friday afternoon during July and August, thus giving the clerks a half holiday. The clerks promise that if this is done they will take Friday afternoon for recreation and will attend church on Sunday.

—The new railroad was finished on Saturday, but for the sake of making the work of driving the last spike a more ceremonies proceeding that duty was deferred until Monday. It need not require more than a day to inspect the road and then it can be opened to the traveling public.

—A Lock Haven youth named O. M. Smith was horsewhipped at Bradford last Friday by Miss Emma R. Steiner, a member of the New York Standard Opera Company. The reason for the castigation was that the young man was forcing his attentions on the young lady against her will.

—Hon. H. L. Dieffenbach, of Lock Haven, has been tendered and has accepted a position on the United States educational board. The appointment is made by the Secretary of the Interior and takes effect as soon as the appointee is physically able to enter upon the duties of the office.

—Oliver W. Quiggle, a young man 23 years of age, who lived on the farm of Mr. John Taylor, two miles east of Cogan Station, in Lycoming county, committed suicide on Monday evening about 7 o'clock. He was attempting to do farm work and read medicine at the same time and the double employment was perhaps too much for his strength and abilities and temporarily deranged his mind.

—Mr. A. J. Cruse has broken ground for a new residence on Linn street. It is on the south side of the street, opposite Mr. J. C. Harper's residence, and is a fine location for a home, the ground being quite level all the way back to Lamb street. As Mr. Cruse is building the house for his own occupancy it will be quite a handsome building, with all the modern conveniences and improvements.

In the Garden.

This is the time of year when the garden is at its best. This is especially so of flower and vegetable gardens; fruit gardens have not reached the full development, wealth and beauty. The potato tops are high and luxuriant and their blossoms almost fit them in appearance for a flower bed. But the use of these vines in developing the tubers is so much more important than merely in flower-production that people never think of the latter. The potato grows right along through the dry weather. Not so, however, with corn, which of late years has had to struggle to attain maturity, and has failed to reach luxuriant growth. The green pea vines are among the first to mature and show signs of age. The dark-leaved dwarf vines are down near the ground, while those which grow high are so delicate in structure that they cannot stand alone and must needs cling for support to branches from the giant trees. But their blossoms are a thing of beauty and a joy—ah, alas, not forever, but only for a few brief weeks. The lettuce leaf looks cool, even in mid-summer. The first visitor to gladden the table, it will remain all summer if only given that encouragement which it deserves. Then, good cooks can serve turnip and beat leaf salad which will tempt the palate of an epicure. Beans, tomato plants, etc., add to the picture.

THE GLORY OF THE GARDEN—

more lovely now, perhaps, than ever before—is the strawberry, whose reign will soon be over with no successor fit to sit on that imperial throne. From white blossom to red luscious berry here centres our interest. How charming to reach with finger tips among the red leaves to pluck a berry, and fairly shout when we survey its size and think of its lusciousness. The goose-berry bush (What a name! Neither berry nor bush resembles a goose!) are handsome and prickly, raspberry and blackberry bushes are tall and strong, and the berry of the latter when highly cultivated is graceful and tempting, but none can equal the strawberry for food. Here again is a misnomer, as the strawberry don't look like straw, and we fancy the taste is even more unlike.

Sometimes we imagine that

are fruit that has been transformed into a shape more heavenly and ethereal—having given up the service of mere physical humanity to the more exalted duty of ministering to aesthetic taste. Of late years, it seems, flower gardens have assumed a more permanent and decided place than formerly. Instead of only a geranium here and a peony or lily there, we have given a generous welcome to the flowers by offering them a recognized home. There, for instance, on Gen. Beaver's premises are two prettily arranged beds filled with blossoming scarlet geraniums. It is their rightful place, each bud and blossom must do its best to rival its neighbor. Then a bed of verbenas will look equally beautiful and nothing can excel the rich glory of "only a pansy blossom" if enough of them are congregated together. We also notice that in the centre of the large lawn in the rear of Mrs. Brockerhoff's residence is a great circular bed of geraniums with a border of plants which are admired for the glory and beauty of their leaves.

Fruit and vegetables are the most healthful summer diet, and flowers are the gifts jointly of nature and care to elevate us nearer heaven.

—There is some hope in the future for young men who are paying attention to ice cream girls; and that includes them all, for we have never met a girl who don't like ice cream. But the hope to which we refer is in the fact that a movement is on foot to reduce ice cream to 5 cents per saucer. A veteran ice cream dealer, in speaking of this, remarked that it is not with the object of increasing the consumption of ice cream, but only to catch the trade that is going. The dealer believes that the girl would make her young man treat her to cream even if it was 25 cents per saucer, but the competition in the trade compels the reduction to 5 cents and the dealer who first does this will never lack customers. The young men will unite in erecting a monument to his memory.

—The Commissioners who are superintending the erection of the State Reformatory at Huntingdon held a meeting in Philadelphia on Thursday at which it was decided to advertise for the building of a third wing, to contain 228 cells, two houses for the use of the warden and for official use a main entrance, and boiler house and tank. This will continue to give employment to a number of laborers and mechanics, and a number of both classes are already seeking positions on the force.

—Heavy rain storms prevailed in some parts of the county on Sunday.

How Bellefonte will Celebrate the Glorious Fourth.

If our readers will glance at the programme of exercises and amusements for the Glorious Fourth which we give below they will realize that Bellefonte will celebrate this year on the most magnificent scale ever known. There may be other exercises if the day is long enough and the sun hot enough and—if the beer car arrives.

PROGRAMME.

8 a. m. Inauguration and dedication of the magnificent new depot building erected by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

9 a. m. Testing of the new pavement in front of the Bush House by the chairman of the Street committee. This will be done up "Brown."

10 a. m. Tub race in Spring creek.

11 a. m. Driving the last spike on the B. N. and L. R. R., the Fourth of July being considered the "luckiest" day in the year for that purpose.

12 noon. Sumptuous dinner of beer, gingerbread and pretzels.

From 2 to 5 p. m., Music by Milesburg Band on Spring creek bridge.

6 p. m. Completion of the grand improvements in laying water pipes which have been in progress all summer and spring. Addresses by Messrs. Shaughnessy and Ryan.

After dark, Reading of Declaration of Independence by Mr. S. Goldsmith and grand explosion of fireworks in front of Bee Hive.

To conclude with a full dress hop in the Bush House parlors.

—The people of Lock Haven are already making arrangements for an excursion from that city over the Bald Eagle Valley R. R. to this place, thence over the Bellefonte and Lemont Road and thence to Spring Mills. In a recently-published notice of the proposed excursion in the Lock Haven Democrat, the beautiful scenery along the new road between Bellefonte and Lemont is thus described: "The part to be traversed after leaving Bellefonte is uncommonly picturesque, passing around the end of an abruptly broken mountain and through that section which fifty years ago was covered with a dense growth of scrub oaks, from which it took the name of Barrens, now constituting one of the finest sections of farming land in Centre county. Then scarcely a house could be found between Bellefonte and the end of the mountain; now beautiful houses dot the whole distance. Having passed through the Barrens and around the mountain, Penns Valley is entered. This valley is six miles wide and at this season presents one of the most gladdening sights upon which the human eye ever rested. Your correspondent was once traveling in a stage on the mountain road overlooking this valley, in company with an English gentleman, who, after gazing with wonder upon its level fields nicely carpeted with their varied products, and the distant mountain walls, declared that he had traveled in many varied and beautiful landscapes, but that he had never seen a picture so perfectly lovely as he then and there beheld."

State College Notes.

The farewell sermon to the graduating class of State College was delivered in the College chapel Sunday afternoon, by Rev. Washington Gladden, D. D., of Columbus, Ohio. It was the occasion for the gathering of a very large audience, including some of Bellefonte's most prominent citizens. Rev. Dr. Gladden is pastor of a congregational church in Columbus. His text was from Isaiah, 66th chap., and a clause of the 15th verse—"I will make thee an eternal excellency." His manner is impassioned and eloquent, and his style florid.

The graduating class this year numbers ten, among them being Mr. P. M. F. Nishikan, of Erezoum-Turkey. The graduation exercises of the class will occur Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

—The Blair county Republican convention on Tuesday, June 23, at Hollidaysburg, nominated Graham Meadville, of Antis township, for Sheriff; Charles Geesey, the present incumbent, for prothonotary; Joseph Robinson, of Frankstown township, for overseer of poor; Daniel Laughman, of Altoona, for jury commissioner; H. M. Baldrige, Esq., of Hollidaysburg, and Robert A. McCoy, of Tyrone, for representative delegates to the State Convention; and Chas. R. Downing, of Altoona, for Senatorial delegate. The delegates to the State Convention were instructed for Theodore H. Wigton for State Treasurer.

—Frederick Ream, the proprietor of a hotel at Walnut Grove, near Johnstown, on Monday morning, made a violent attack on his brother, Conrad Ream, injuring him severely. The former has been crazed by financial troubles and will be confined in an asylum.

New Postal Rates.

We are informed that the changes in postage authorized by the appropriation bill of the last congress went into effect on Wednesday, July 1. The effect of this will be to increase the standard weight of domestic first-class matter from half an ounce to one ounce, so that on and after the 1st of July all domestic first-class matter sent through the mails, including drop letters and letter carrier offices, must be charged with postage at the rate of two cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce, instead of two cents per half ounce or fraction, as at present. Drop letters at other than letter carrier offices to be charged at rate of one cent per ounce or fraction. This change in the standard of weight will also apply to first-class matter addressed to Canada, but not to matter addressed to other foreign countries.

The same law also reduces the rate of postage from two cents per pound to one cent per pound on all newspapers and periodicals when sent by the publisher, and from the office of publication, including sample copies, or when sent from a news agency to actual subscribers or to other news agents. Private individuals mailing newspapers and periodicals pay at the rate of one cent for four ounces. The revenue derived from the postage on newspapers and periodicals last year was nearly two million dollars, and this reduction in rate, it is thought, will reduce the revenue from that source nearly one million dollars.

The changes in the rate or weight of first-class mail matter, it is thought, will result in but a slight reduction in revenue from letter postage.

War in Italy.

Three Italians engaged in shoveling ashes at the Nail Works indulged on Tuesday morning in what might have been a fatal encounter, and one of them whose name is Lewis Gonot, was badly used up, now suffering from a wound on his left arm and a cut on his right shoulder.

The man who inflicted these injuries boasts of the musical name of Sito Golzarane, but he is about as uncouth a specimen of humanity as one wants to see.

It appears that the men began swearing in their own impressive language about one another's relatives until Sito said something abusive of Lewis' mother. The latter raised a shovel to strike Sito, who in turn used his shovel in inflicting the injuries above described. At the hearing before Squire Foster this morning, District Attorney Heinle conducted the prosecution, and as neither he nor Squire Foster are sufficiently well versed in Italian to carry on a very fluent conversation in that language, an interpreter's services were invoked, and Sito Golzarane will languish in jail during the next two weeks.

Rock Spring Ripples.

We are glad to be able to correct an error made by your informant in last week's issue in regard to Mr. Samuel Elder. His arm was not cut off, as stated—only a deep gash in the wrist, and a few bruises about his head that are not serious. He is now under the careful treatment of Dr. Quinn, of Pine Grove Mills, and great hopes of his recovery are entertained.

Mr. Frank Bowersox, one of our successful farmers and good citizens, returned home a few days ago from an extended trip through the West. Mr. B. was accompanied by his wife. We hope they have no desire to make the land of the setting sun their future home, and that they have returned to remain permanently with their many friends in Old Centre.

Our young merchant friends, J. C. Goheen & Bro., continue to do a live trade, but why not when they with their genial manner make their customers feel quite at home while in their store.

—Rev. B. F. Brown, of Lewistown, officiated on Sunday in the Episcopal church. We understand that he is a candidate for the rectorship, and therefore a more particular reference to him will not be out of place. He is a pleasing, courtly gentleman both in and out of the pulpit. Though perhaps a little below the medium height, he has a dignified manner that renders him impressive. His hair, which is thick and quite light in color, is combed back in graceful waves. His mustache is a shade darker than his hair. His voice is deep and distinct and his articulation careful and cultivated. The cut of his garments is clerical. While reading the Scripture lessons he wore a pair of gold glasses, but while reading his sermon he did not use them. His sermons were scholarly and his manner of delivery very pleasing. He seems to have sufficiently robust physical health to endure the exacting duties of the Bellefonte rectorship.

—The members of three Sabbath schools at Millheim enjoyed a picnic at Penn caves last Saturday.

Personal Penellings.

Mr. James Lipton, of Kansas, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Mr. James L. Hamill, of Lemont, was at the Bush House Wednesday morning.

William L. Kurtz, of Centre Hall, graduated from Lewisburg University last week.

Mrs. John G. Love departed for Lock Haven Friday morning to remain a few days.

Mr. John Francis, of Philipsburg, is said to be heir to a fortune of $2,000,000 from England.

Mrs. Wm. Bower, of Haines township, is suffering from the effects of a fall on Friday, the 19th.

Mrs. Kimble, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. G. Curtin, Jr., on Curtin street.

Wm. H. Smith, of Millheim, killed a blacksnake, a few days ago, which measured four feet in length.

Mrs. Frank Hall, of Harrisburg, Pa., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. L. Brown, on East High street.

Rev. Mr. Robinson, a clergyman from Staten Island, will officiate in the Episcopal church next Sunday.

Our friend, Chas. Hewes, Esq., had an agreeable ride to Tyrone on Saturday. He returned on the next train.

Mr. Israel Sternberg is home once again from Renovo, and expects to remain this time for an indefinite period.

Mrs. A. B. Steele was a passenger on the departing 5:20 train on Monday. She went to Tyrone to visit relatives.

Miss Ella Rhone, daughter of Dr. W. H. Rhone, returned on Saturday, after quite a long visit among friends in Harrisburg.

Mrs. Chas. McCafferty, of this place, is spending a few weeks down at the level of the sea at Atlantic City, in company with her mother.

Mrs. Hibler, widow of the late Moran Hibler, of Bradford, is a guest at the home of her father-in-law, Dr. A. Hibler, on Allegheny street.

Major Geo. F. Harris, of this place, has resigned as surgeon of the Fifth regiment. It is believed that Dr. A. S. Strayer, of Roaring Springs, will succeed him.

Hon. T. P. Rynder, of Milesburg, chairman of the Greenback-Labor party of Pennsylvania, spent last week among the G. A. R. veterans at Portland, Maine.

Mrs. Thomas Tonner, of Lock Haven, and Mrs. William Harter, of Tylerville, Sugar Valley, were on Friday guests at Mr. Lew Snaffer's residence on Spring street.

J. Irvin Morris, a prominent citizen of Milesburg, transacted business in Bellefonte on Tuesday. He is a very pleasant gentleman and favored the REPUBLICAN with a call.

Mr. Bayard Hicks, junior partner in the firm of H. K. Hicks & Bro., has been ill for several weeks with something like a carbuncle on one of his legs. He is now getting better.

Miss Chandler, the very agreeable young lady who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Chambers, returned on Saturday to her home in Kennett Square, Pa.

Mr. S. M. Hamill, of Lemont, was among the guests at the Hays-Coryell wedding on Thursday evening in Williamsport. The happy couple received presents valued at $4,000.

Mrs. W. F. Reber and children accompanied by Mrs. Reber's mother, Mrs. Butts, are visiting friends in Lewisburg and other places, expecting to be away from home about two weeks.

Rev. S. L. Stiver, A. M., a native of Potter township, this county, is principal of Bunker Hill Academy, located in the pretty little town of Bunker Hill, Macopin county, Illinois.

Mr. Edwin M. Miller, a son of Jno. A. Miller, of Rebersburg, is a guest at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Catharine Miller, near Bellefonte. Mr. Miller is a student at the Selinsgrove Seminary, and is a very bright young gentleman.

Department Commander of the G. A. R., Austin Curtin, arrived home from Portland, Maine, on Saturday and was in town Monday. He is enthusiastic about the encampment, pronouncing it the grandest and most successful ever held.

Colonel Teller, proprietor of the Bush House, Bellefonte, went to Lewistown yesterday morning. The Colonel is one of the best landlords in this "neck of the woods," and when you meet him away from "biz" he is the same jolly good fellow.—Altoona Times of June 24.

Miss Florence Riley, of Boalsburg, Centre county, a cousin of A. J. Riley, Esq., leaves for home to-day. She recently completed her course at the International Business College, and secured a diploma. Her many friends in this city extend congratulations and best wishes.—Altoona Times of June 29.

Personal Penellings.

Girard Minsker is making arrangements to erect a frame dwelling house on the extreme eastern end of Curtin street.

Hon. Francis Jordan, of Harrisburg, stopped at the Brockerhoff House on Tuesday on his way to State College, which he visits at least once a year.

Clem Dale, Esq., has been looking exceedingly lonely for several weeks, but he is cheering up now in view of the return of Mrs. D. next Monday.

Mrs. Roberts, one of the lady instructors in the Bellefonte Academy, departed on Monday afternoon for Vermont, where she will spend the summer. Her children accompanied her.

Centre Hall on Paper.

From the Lock Haven Democrat.

Centre Hall, the handsome village at the base of the mountains, nestling so closely, is destined to become quite a place of resort as well as of business. The natural attractions and inducements of pure air, water and lovely landscapes have all been praised repeatedly.

The cornerstone of the new Lutheran church will soon be laid and a handsome Gothic structure takes the place of the one that was burned last fall. The estimated cost, when finished, furnished and complete, will be at least $10,000. Rev. W. E. Fischer, the efficient pastor, and people are very busy and deeply interested in their church building. The location is on a corner in the business part of the town.

The Reformed and Evangelical brethren are building parsonages for their ministers. The society of the village is benefited by the residence of five ministers and their families representing as many different denominations.

Besides other improvements and recent changes made, the most perceptible are those under the management of Editor Kurtz, of the Reporter, at the station along the new railroad, consisting of dwelling houses, a large steam flour mill with a capacity of manufacturing seventy barrels of flour per day. That is business and indicates unusual enterprise in a country editor. A store and other buildings have also been erected at the railroad. The town is growing.

—The Republicans met in convention in Huntingdon on Tuesday. Ex-Prothonotary McKnight Williamson, of Huntingdon, and H. C. Tussey, of Morris township, were elected representative delegates to the State Convention. The first choice of each of these gentlemen for State Treasurer is Theo. H. Wigton, of Altoona, and their second choice is M. S. Quay. The county ticket nominated is as follows: For associate judge, C. A. McCarty, of Saltville; jury commissioner, ex-County Treasurer Harris Richardson, of Penn township; poor director, James F. Thompson, of West township; coroner, Joseph G. Ienberger, of Huntingdon. Ex-Prothonotary Sewell H. Stewart, of Huntingdon, was chosen chairman of the Republican county committee.

—Rev. J. A. Woodcock's gorgeous and comfortable little Queen Anne residence on Linn street is finished and ready for the occupancy of the owner and his agreeable wife. It is externally a model of beauty and suggestive of great cheerfulness on the inside. What can be more inviting than that immense bay window, which must render the front room as bright as day. The house and all of its surroundings are bright and attractive and reflect the owner's good taste.

—The new scientific building at Dickinson College, Carlisle, was dedicated on Wednesday, the 24th of June. It was built by the Hon. Jacob Tome, of Port Deposit, at a cost of $25,000. Hon. John Patton, of Curwensville, the REPUBLICAN's first choice for State Treasurer, endowed eight scholarships, which will be offered as prizes in that institution for all time to come.

—As the encampment of the G. A. R. at Portland, Maine, was the most successful ever held, it may be due to the place and to the cause of temperance to attribute this grand success to the fact that no liquor was sold there, and no headaches followed the fun indulged in.

—The grand excursion party on the B. N. and L. R. R. on Monday, went as far as Oak Hall on the Spring Mills branch, and found the trip as delightful as could be expected in those Lemont parlor cars.

MARRIED.

TANNER-JOHNSTON.—At the bride's home, near Mt. Eagle, on Thursday, June 25, at 4 p. m., William B. Tanner, of Renovo, and Christine Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnston.

HELLER-SULLIVAN.—At the home of the bride, on the 25th of June, by Rev. F. A. Brand, Mr. Jacob Heller, of Rebersburg, and Miss Mary J. Small, of Centre Mills.
